

106. Limit on power to order removal of vessels or dangerous things

A harbour master must not direct that a vessel or dangerous thing be moved out of a port unless satisfied that there is no other place in the port where the vessel or dangerous thing can lie without —

- (a) obstructing other vessels;
- (b) hindering the efficiency of the operations of the port;
- (c) endangering the safety of people or property; or
- (d) polluting the waters of the port.