

33. Delegatory powers of chief executive officers and chief employees

Subject to any other written law, a chief executive officer or chief employee may, in writing and either generally or as otherwise provided by the instrument of delegation, delegate to an employee in his or her department or organisation any of his or her powers or duties under this Act, other than this power of delegation.