- (1) The Minister may appoint a person to act in the office of referee whenever the office is vacant or a referee is suspended or disqualified or otherwise is unable to act in the office.

- (2) Nothing in this regulation affects the referee's liability for fraud.

Part 5 — Jurisdiction and powers of referee

18. Referee bound by the Act and the regulations

The referee is not to make a determination that is inconsistent with the Act, these regulations, the Transmission Regulations or the Distribution Regulations.

19. Referee is not an arbitrator

The referee is not an arbitrator within the meaning of the Commercial Arbitration Act 1985, and the dispute resolution process is not an arbitration within the meaning of that Act.

20. Referee not a regulator

Any question that arises for determination in the course of proceedings is to be determined according to law and the referee is not to —

- (a) review the merits or otherwise of any decision, act or omission by any party which is lawfully made, done or omitted; or
- (b) make a determination in respect of any matter not subject to a dispute unless authorised to do so under regulation 24, 25 or 33.

21. Jurisdiction over disputes

- (1) The referee has jurisdiction, exclusive of the jurisdiction of courts and other tribunals, to hear and determine any prescribed dispute that remains unresolved at the conclusion of meetings held under regulation 5(6).
- (2) The referee has jurisdiction to hear and determine any non-prescribed dispute between a corporation and a user if the dispute remains unresolved at the conclusion of meetings held under regulation 5(6) and the terms of the relevant access agreement provide for the dispute to be dealt with by the referee.

22. Exceptions to referee's exclusive jurisdiction over prescribed disputes

A grant of exclusive jurisdiction to the referee under these regulations does not affect the rights of appeal, of judicial review, and to refer questions of law to a Judge under Part 8.

23. Referee may disqualify himself or herself

If at any time the referee believes that —

- (a) his or her hearing or determination of a dispute would or might result in misconduct by the referee;
- (b) there is a real danger of undue influence being exercised in relation to the referee; or
- (c) the referee is unsuitable to deal with the particular dispute, the referee may, by his or her own motion or on the application of a party, disqualify himself or herself from hearing or determining that dispute.

24. Referee may extend ambit of proceedings regarding prescribed disputes

Where —

- (a) a prescribed dispute between any 2 or more parties is referred to the referee; and
- (b) there is some other prescribed dispute between some or all of those parties, the referee may, upon application to the referee by any one or more of the parties any time before a final determination is made in relation to the first-mentioned dispute, make an order (on such terms and conditions, if any, as the referee thinks fit) directing that the proceedings be extended so as to include the other prescribed dispute.

25. Referee may extend ambit of consent proceedings

Without limiting the referee's jurisdiction under regulation 24 in respect of prescribed disputes, the referee may with the consent of the parties determine any additional dispute that may be raised by any party by way of further claim, set-off, defence or counterclaim, subject to any conditions as to costs or otherwise that the referee may impose, as long as the additional dispute is within the referee's jurisdiction, whether or not a dispute notice has been given in respect of that additional dispute.

26. Court referral of prescribed disputes

- (1) Where, on the application of any party to proceedings before a court, the court is satisfied that a prescribed dispute between any of the parties to those proceedings is before the court, the court is to order that the prescribed dispute be transferred to and determined by the referee.
- (2) Where the court makes an order under subregulation (1), proceedings before the referee are by force of this regulation to be taken to have been commenced at the date of that order.

27. Jurisdictional disputes to be heard by referee

Any dispute which arises in proceedings before a referee as to the jurisdiction of the referee is to be heard and determined by the referee, and the referee's determination on the matter is subject to appeal in accordance with Part 8.

28. Authority of referee

- (1) Subject to the Act and these regulations and to subregulation (2), the authority of the referee to hear and determine a dispute referred to him or her is irrevocable.
- (2) The parties to a dispute that is not a prescribed dispute may agree unanimously in writing to revoke the referee's authority.

29. Rules of natural justice

The rules of natural justice apply at and in connection with all proceedings.

30. Referee may give practice directions

- (1) The referee may conduct proceedings in such manner as he or she thinks fit and may from time to time give practice directions, whether general or in respect of particular proceedings, regarding all matters relating to the procedure and conduct of proceedings, including without limitation the following —
 - (a) for regulating and prescribing the procedure (including the method of pleading or otherwise defining the issues in a dispute) and the practice to be followed in proceedings before the referee and any matters incidental to or relating to any such procedure or practice;
 - (b) for regulating the sittings of the referee, including the commencement, adjournment and resumption of proceedings;
 - (c) for prescribing matters relating to evidence, including directions that depart from the law of evidence, and directions regulating the means by which particular facts may be proved, the mode in which evidence thereof may be given, the examination, cross-examination and re-examination of witnesses, and the disclosure of the nature and substance of evidence to be given;
 - (d) for the discovery, inspection and production of documents;
 - (e) for the serving and deemed serving of notices or other documents;
 - (f) regarding the manner, timing and costs of publication of determinations;

s. 31

- (g) for the setting and determination of time, time limits and extension of time; and
 - (h) for the assessment and taxation of costs, and for the setting of appropriate costs scales.
- (2) The power to give practice directions in subregulation (1) may be exercised at any time and from time to time, and includes the power to alter, annul, or add directions, and to prescribe, alter, annul, or add forms.

31. Miscellaneous powers of the referee

- (1) The referee may of his or her own motion, but only to the extent reasonably necessary to facilitate the determination of a dispute presently before him or her —

(b), (c) or (d), after first disclosing the opinion to the parties and receiving the parties' submissions thereon.

- (4) The costs and expenses of —
- (a) any person retained or consulted;
 - (b) any investigations or inquiries undertaken; and
 - (c) any maps, plans, models, reports and measurements made, written or taken, by or on behalf of the referee under subregulation (1) are to be reasonable and are to be in the referee's discretion and, without limiting that discretion, may be dealt with as part of the costs of the proceedings.

- (5) The term of retainer of any person retained or consulted under this regulation must end no later than the day on which the referee publishes his or her final determination in the proceedings in question.

- (7) Nothing in this regulation affects the referee's obligation to comply with the rules of natural justice.

32. Referee may dismiss matters

The referee may dismiss any matter before him or her on the grounds that a party's position is wholly without merit, or is vexatious or amounts to an abuse of process of the referee, and that dismissal is a determination for the purposes of the Act, these regulations, the Transmission Regulations, the Distribution Regulations or an access agreement.

33. Referee may consolidate matters

- (1) Where in relation to 2 or more proceedings before the referee it appears to the referee upon the application of any one or more of the parties to those proceedings —
- (a) that some common question of law or fact arises in both or all of them;
 - (b) that the rights to relief claimed in both or all of them are in respect of or arise out of the same transaction or series of transactions; or the referee may order those proceedings to be consolidated on such terms as he or she thinks just, or may order them to be heard at the same time, or one immediately after another, or may order any of them to be stayed until after the determination of any other of them.

- (2) Nothing in this regulation is to be construed as preventing the parties to 2 or more proceedings before the referee, from agreeing to consolidate those proceedings and taking such steps as are necessary to effect that consolidation.

Part 6 — Commencement and conduct of proceedings

34. Time limitation

- (4) If there is no referee when a prescribed dispute arises, proceedings may commence outside the time limit in subregulation (1) or (2) as long as a party to the prescribed dispute has notified the Minister within 12 months after the occurrence of the act, or omission or decision of a corporation or the user or the prospective user or the access offer which is the subject of the dispute.

[Regulation 34 amended in Gazette 31 Mar 2006 p. 1325.]

62. Costs at discretion of referee

- (1) The costs of proceedings before the referee are to be borne by the unsuccessful party unless the referee considers that the

 - (ii) if in the opinion of the referee there is no such item, the costs are to be fixed at such sum as in the opinion of the referee is adequate in the circumstances.

s. 64

64. No prospective agreement that parties bear their own costs

A provision in an access agreement or other agreement to the effect that the parties or a particular party to future proceedings before the referee are in any event to pay their own or any party's costs of any future proceedings, or any part of those costs, is of no effect.
