[Assented to 1 December 1983.]

BE it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and the Legislative Assembly of Western Australia, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

No 36.] Agricultural Produce (Chemical Residues). [1983.

Commencement.

2. This Act shall come into operation on a day to be fixed by proclamation.

Construction.

3. Where any provision of this Act is in conflict with the Health Act 1911, or where the exercise of any power conferred by or under this Act would be inconsistent with the exercise of a power conferred by or under the Health Act 1911 or regulations made thereunder, the provision of this Act shall be deemed not to apply in so far as it so conflicts and any such power conferred by or under this Act shall not be exercised so as to limit or restrict the exercise of the power conferred by or under the Health Act 1911 or those regulations.

Interpretation.

4. (1) In this Act, unless the contrary intention appears—

“agricultural chemical” means any substance prescribed to be an agricultural chemical;

“agricultural produce” means—

(a) any plant, whether severed from the land or not; or

(b) any carcass or other commodity obtained from any animal or plant, which plant, carcass, or other commodity is ordinarily used as food for human or animal consumption or for manufacture into a commodity ordinarily so used, but does not include any plant, carcass, or other commodity that is, or is of a class that is, excluded from this definition under subsection (2);

“analyst” means a person appointed under section 6 to be an analyst for the purposes of this Act;

“authorized person” means a person appointed under section 6 to be an authorized person for the purposes of this Act;

“food” includes drink;

“maximum residue limit”, in relation to an agricultural chemical residue present in agricultural produce, means the maximum residue limit prescribed in respect of that agricultural chemical in relation to that agricultural produce;

“officer” means an officer employed under the Public Service Act 1978 in the Department of the Public Service of the State through which the Minister administers this Act;

“residue” in relation to any agricultural chemical includes, in addition to any of that agricultural chemical that is present, any derivative or metabolite of the agricultural chemical present;

“section” means a section of this Act;

“subsection” means a subsection of the section in which the term is used.

(2) The Minister may, by notice published in the Government Gazette, exclude from the definition of “agricultural produce” in subsection (1) any plant, carcass, or other commodity, or any class thereof, if he is satisfied that it will not be used as, or for manufacture into, food for human consumption and that any agricultural chemical residue that might be contained therein would be unlikely directly or indirectly to cause or contribute to the presence of an agricultural chemical residue in any other plant, carcass, or other commodity that is agricultural produce within the meaning of that definition.

5. The objects of this Act are to ensure that— Objects.

- (a) the production of agricultural produce in which any agricultural chemical residue is present in excess of the maximum residue limit is as far as possible avoided; and

- (b) agricultural produce in which any agricultural chemical residue is present in excess of the maximum residue limit is not used—
- (i) as, or for manufacture into, food for human consumption;
 - (ii) as, or for manufacture into, food for consumption by any animal if there is any reasonable likelihood that such consumption may directly or indirectly cause or contribute to the presence of an agricultural chemical residue in any agricultural produce in excess of the maximum residue limit;
 - (iii) in any other manner likely directly or indirectly to cause or contribute to the presence of an agricultural chemical residue in any agricultural produce in excess of the maximum residue limit.

Authorized persons and analysts.

6. (1) The Minister may appoint persons to be analysts and persons who are officers to be authorized persons for the purposes of this Act, and an analyst who is not employed in the Public Service of the State may be paid for his services such remuneration as the Minister approves.

(2) Every person appointed under subsection (1) shall be furnished with a certificate of his appointment, signed by either the Minister or an officer authorized by the Minister to sign the certificate on his behalf, and an authorized person shall, if requested to do so, produce that certificate to any person in relation to whom he is about to exercise any of his powers under this Act.

(3) A certificate purporting to have been furnished under subsection (2) is, without proof of the signature of the person purporting to have signed the certificate or of his authority to sign the certificate, evidence in any court of the appointment to which the certificate purports to relate.

(4) Where the appointment of a person under subsection (1) expires or is otherwise terminated, that person shall forthwith surrender the certificate furnished to him under subsection (2) to the Minister or, if the Minister specifies in writing that the certificate is to be surrendered to another person, to that other person.

7. (1) Subject to subsection (3), an authorized person may, in pursuance of the objects of this Act, by notice in writing, direct that—

- (b) any animal or plant from which agricultural produce may be derived in which the authorized person has reasonable grounds for suspecting an agricultural chemical residue to be present to such an extent that an agricultural chemical residue in excess of the maximum residue limit is likely to be present in agricultural produce derived therefrom; or
- (c) any manufactured food or other substance not for human consumption containing an agricultural chemical to such an extent that its ordinary use is likely to result directly or indirectly in the presence of an agricultural chemical residue in excess of the maximum residue limit in any agricultural produce, shall not, or shall not before the expiry of a time specified in the notice, be used, disposed of, or otherwise dealt with, except in accordance with regulations made under this Act, as otherwise permitted in the notice, or pursuant to approval in writing under section 11.

(3) Except where he has received a report of an analysis made by an analyst which relates to the agricultural produce, animal, plant, food, or other substance that is the subject of the direction, an authorized person shall not include in a notice under subsection (1) or (2) any direction without specifying a time after which the direction ceases to have effect, but nothing in this subsection prevents successive notices from being given under either of those subsections.

(4) A notice under subsection (1) may be given to the person having possession of the agricultural produce, animal, plant, food or other substance to which the notice relates or where the agricultural produce, animal, plant, food or other substance is in transit, to the person into whose possession it is to be delivered.

is no longer in the possession of the person convicted but has not been forfeited pursuant to section 23, the court may impose, in addition to any penalty that may be imposed under subsection (1), a further penalty not exceeding twice the value of anything used, disposed of, or otherwise dealt with as referred to in paragraph (a) of this subsection or derived as referred to in paragraph (b) of this subsection.

(3) A notice required by subsection (2) in relation to an entry on to land shall be in writing specifying with particularity the purpose for which entry is required and shall continue to have effect for so long as that requirement subsists, and successive entries for that purpose shall be taken to be entries to which the notice relates.

(4) Where it is shown to the satisfaction of a justice that entry on to any land is reasonably required for a purpose contemplated by this Act but that entry has been refused or is opposed or prevented, or in any case where such land is apparently unoccupied and the obtaining of consent or the giving of a notice required by subsection (2) would occasion undue delay or difficulty, the justice may, by warrant in the prescribed form, authorize an authorized person, together with any other persons named in the warrant, to enter upon the land, using such force as may be necessary, for the purpose specified in the warrant, and any such warrant shall continue to have effect until the purpose for which it was granted has been satisfied.

(5) Where an authorized person has reason to suspect that an offence against this Act is being, or is about to be, committed on any land and the circumstances are such that immediate intervention is appropriate and compliance with the normal requirements of this section is impractical or unreasonable, the authorized person may, without notice or warrant and by force of this subsection, lawfully effect immediate entry onto or into any land to intervene in the commission of the offence and endeavour to ensure compliance with the provisions of this Act.
