WARRNAMBOOL LIGHTS.

THE attention of Masters of vessels and others is called to the notice published on the 28th December last, relative to the alteration of the Warrnambool Lights.

These lights will be exhibited on and after Monday next, the 1st of May.

The Upper Light exhibits a fixed white light, 109 feet above the level of the sea, and is visible from seaward on any bearing from about east round southerly to N. W. at a distance of fourteen (14) miles in clear weather.

The Low Light, which is a leading light, exhibits a fixed red light, and is visible between the bearings S. 1deg. 30min. W. and S. 11deg. 30min. E. at a distance of five (5) miles in clear weather.

The Warrnambool Jetty extends nearly 700 feet from the shore and has a fixed green light at its end, visible at a distance of three (3) miles.

Vessels entering Warrnambool Harbor should keep the red light in sight and steer in with it bearing north, and in line with the upper light until the green light on the jetty is opened, when steer in for it and anchor. The best anchorage is in about fifteen (15) feet water, about a cable's length to the northward of the ledge off the Breakwater Rock.

Leading Marks.—The two lighthouses in line bearing north lead in the fairway between the five-fathom bank and the foul ground to the S.E. of the Breakwater Rock.

Entering Warrnambool Harbor from the southward or the westward, vessels are cautioned to avoid the seventeen-foot patch which lies S.S.E. nearly half a mile from the Middle Island.

Vessels entering from the eastward either cross the bar to the south-eastward, or proceed to get the leading marks on as before directed.

Masters of vessels are recommended not to shut in the upper white light, nor bring it to bear to the westward of N. W., when standing towards the mouth of the Hopkins River.

In bad weather, or with a heavy southerly swell, the sea breaks one (1) mile off the land.

Caution.—It is not safe to enter or leave Warrnambool Harbor in south-westerly or southerly gales.

Chief Harbor Master.
