NEW ZEALAND.

NORTH ISLAND—WEST COAST.

CHANGES IN HOKIANGA RIVER BAR.

The Government of New Zealand has published the following Sailing Directions for Hokianga river bar, the result of a recent survey (1878) made by the Colonial steam-vessel Stella:—

The shoals forming the bar at the river entrance extend as formerly, in a north-west and south-east direction for about 2 miles, at the distance of from  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $1\frac{3}{4}$  miles from the Heads, with two channels (North and South), in both of which a least depth of 18 feet was found at low water spring tides. In the former main channel, a depth of only 9 feet was found;—consequently, the beacons for this channel have been removed, and will not again be erected.

The soundings close outside the bar, decrease suddenly from 8 to 3½ fathoms. Manganui bluff in line with a low point about 6 miles south-east of Outer South head, leads close outside the bar shoals.

Leading mark for NORTH CHANNEL.—Andrews store (the southern house on the beach in Martins bay) in line with the extreme of South head, bearing E. ½ N.

Leading mark for SOUTH CHANNEL.—The Schoolhouse (a conspicuous single white building on the rising ground northward of the old Pilot's house) in line with the extreme of South head, bearing N.E. ½ E.

DIRECTIONS.—South head, 150 feet high, has a large white signal staff on it, from which the International code and General signals for New Zealand ports are shown. Mariners should be guided by these signals, especially the Semaphore arm (see page 13, New Zealand Pilot) by which vessels are directed over the bar, to a position within the Heads where a pilot will board them.

NOTE.—From the frequent changes of the bar, mariners are cautioned not to place reliance on the leading marks for the channels, but should follow the above directions:—

Vessels should not attempt to cross the bar, except with a leading wind and moderate weather; and never unless directions are signalled.

1. No cattle or sheep brought by sea to the colony from any place other than one of the Australasian colonies or New Zealand shall be introduced at any other place than the port of Melbourne, or without the authority in writing of an inspector of stock, and except in accordance with the conditions of such authority; and no inspector of stock shall grant any such authority until he is satisfied that all the provisions of any law and of any regulation of the Governor in Council for the time being in force with respect to the introduction of such cattle or sheep have been complied with.

2. Any person intending to introduce cattle or sheep into Victoria other than cattle or sheep to be used as ship's stores shall give 60 days' notice in writing of his intention to the Chief Inspector of Stock, stating the kind and number of stock intended to be introduced, the country and place from which the same are to be introduced, and the ages and sexes thereof.

3. All such cattle or sheep intended to be introduced into this colony shall be taken direct from the place from which they start to the port of shipment, and if they do not travel on foot they shall be conveyed in a goods waggon or horse-box, and shall not be put into any stable, conveyance, or other place where cattle, sheep, goats, or pigs have been within the next preceding sixty days; and the shipper of such cattle or sheep shall, if called upon, make a statutory declaration that the requirements of this regulation have been duly complied with.

2nd. That they are free from infection.

3rd. That they had not within the sixty days next preceding been in contact with infection, and such certificate shall be endorsed as correct by the inspector or other officer charged with the execution of the law relating to the prevention of diseases among cattle or sheep in the district in which such cattle or sheep were when sold for exportation or from which they started from the port of shipment.

6. If the veterinary surgeon be satisfied that the cattle or sheep intended to be introduced into this colony, and the cattle, sheep or other animals put on board or to be put on board for the ship's use, are free from infection, and that all the other requirements of these regulations have up to that time been duly complied with, he shall grant a certificate to that effect, in the form of Schedule A hereto, and shall deliver the same to the master of the vessel, together with the certificate required by clause No. 5 of these regulations.

11. No inspector shall authorize the introduction of any cattle or sheep until a sum of money has been deposited with him by or on behalf of the owner thereof, which shall be deemed by such inspector sufficient to meet all the expenses of such sheep and cattle hereinafter set out. 12. If any cattle, sheep, or other animals, whether on board any vessel on which they may be introduced, or after they may be landed, and whether or not they may be intended to be landed, be found to be diseased, they may be forthwith destroyed by any inspector of stock or any person acting under the authority of an inspector of stock.

14. Imported cattle or sheep intended to be landed in this colony shall remain in quarantine for a period of not less than ninety days, during which they shall be washed and disinfected as the Chief Inspector may direct, and such cattle or sheep shall not leave the quarantine ground until an inspector of stock, by writing under his hand, shall authorize their removal, and until they shall have been examined by a veterinary surgeon and inspector of stock, and declared by them, by writing under their hands, to be free from infection.

15. All cattle or sheep put on board any vessel for the use of the passengers and crew and removed to the quarantine ground, and all other animals removed from any vessel to the quarantine ground, shall remain there until the vessel is about to leave the port, when they may be re-shipped on the order of the Chief Inspector of Stock.

16. No fodder or fittings brought to the colony by any vessel carrying cattle, sheep, or other animals, shall be landed in this colony without the written authority of an inspector of stock, and except in accordance with the conditions of such authority, and any fodder or fittings otherwise landed may be seized by any inspector of stock or any person acting under the authority of any such inspector, and may be sold or destroyed as an inspector of stock may direct.
