Signed at London, August 9, 1880.

THE Government of Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the Government of His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, having judged it expedient to make arrangements for the disposal of the estates of seamen, being subjects of the one State, who shall die on board a ship or on the territory of the other State, have agreed as follows:—

ARTICLE I.

The estate of any Russian or Finnish seaman who shall die, either on board a British ship or at any place within British territory, shall, if not exceeding fifty pounds sterling (50*l.*) in value, be delivered to the Russian Consul-General in London without being subject to any of the formalities usually required by English law on succession to property.

On the other hand, the estate of any British seaman who shall die, either on board a Russian or Finnish ship or within Russian territory, if not exceeding three hundred and fifty silver roubles (350 roubles) shall be delivered to the nearest British Consul without undergoing any of the forms usually required by Russian or Finnish law on succession to property.

ARTICLE II.

If the deceased, a Russian subject, shall have served in the Royal Navy of Great Britain, any assets which may be payable by the British Admiralty shall be dealt with according to the law of Great Britain.

On the other hand, if the deceased, a British subject, shall have served in the Imperial navy of Russia, any assets which may be payable by the Russian authorities shall be dealt with according to Russian law.

ARTICLE III.

The term "seaman" in this Declaration includes every person (except masters and pilots) employed or engaged in any capacity on board any merchant-ship, or who has been so employed or engaged within six months before his death, and every person, not being a commissioned, warrant, or subordinate officer, or assistant engineer, borne on the books of, or forming part of the complement of, any public ship of war.
