*Colonial Secretary's Office,

HIS Excellency the Governor directs the publication of the following General Regulations to be observed in the construction and working of Private Railways in this Colony.

By Command,
M. S. SMITH,
Acting Colonial Secretary.

General Regulations to be observed in the Construction and Working of Private Railways in the Colony.

PERMANENT SURVEYS, PLANS, SECTIONS, &c.
Working Plans.

1. Copies of working plans and sections on tracing cloth must be deposited in triplicate with the Commissioner of Railways, for his examination and approval, at least one month before the commencement of the work.

The plans should be made in lengths of ten miles, and neatly folded in a special cardboard cover; a specimen of which can be seen at the office of the Commissioner of Railways in Perth.

The plans are to be plotted to a scale of three chains to the inch, and must show all boundaries of properties, roads, buildings, watercourses, &c., within a distance of ten chains on either side of the centre line. The radii of all curves must be given.

Longitudinal Section.

2. The longitudinal section must correspond with the plans, and should in like manner be in lengths of ten miles, neatly folded in a similar cover to the plan.

The section must be plotted to a horizontal scale of three chains to the inch, and to a vertical scale of 30 feet to the inch.

The section must show,—

- a. The reduced level of the datum. For the sake of uniformity throughout the Railways of the Colony, it would be advisable wherever practicable to adopt the same datum as that in use on the Government Eastern Railway, viz., 100 feet below the mean level of the sea at Fremantle.
- b. The reduced level of the surface of the ground at each chain.
- c. The reduced level of the formation at each chain.
- d. The depth of cutting or embankment at each chain.
- e. All bridges, culverts, level crossings, road diversions, and other works must be described in their respective places on the longitudinal section.

Road Crossings and Diversions.

3. Plans to a scale of 40 feet to the inch, and longitudinal section of all road crossings and diversions, must be submitted in triplicate to correspond with each length of section.

Bridges, Culverts, &c.

4. Detailed tracings in triplicate of all works of art such as bridges, viaducts, culverts, &c., included in and to correspond with the lengths of sections must be submitted, for the examination and approval of the Commissioner of Railways, at least one month before the commencement of the work.

N.B.—To avoid work and expense, it would be advisable to submit a complete set of tracings of the standard types of bridges, culverts, &c., proposed to be adopted, which will render it unnecessary each time to send tracings as above; reference being made on the section to the number of the type to be used in each case.

Permanent Way.

5. Tracings in triplicate of the type to a full size of rail, fishplate, bolts, and fastenings proposed to be adopted, together with the specification for the manufacturer, must be approved by the Commissioner of Railways before the line be laid.

Rolling Stock.

6. Tracings in triplicate of the type of engines, tenders, carriages, wagons, and other vehicles to be used on the railway must be submitted to the Commissioner of Railways; and no locomotive, carriage, or vehicle may be used without having been first approved by him.

Station Yards.

7. Plans of all station yards, junctions, &c., to a scale of 40 feet to the inch, must be submitted for the approval of the Commissioner of Railways prior to their execution.

These must be prepared in the same way as the plans and sections on tracing cloth, folded in cover, and in triplicate.

8. The Commissioner of Railways, on approving the plans, sections, &c., will return one to the engineer or accredited agent of the company, duly signed; the second one will be retained in the Public Works' Office; and the third will be handed to the inspecting engineer or agent of the Commissioner of Railways.

9. In all cases before being submitted, the different tracings must be signed by the engineer of the company or by some other duly accredited agent of the company empowered to do so on their behalf.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE RAILWAY.

Fencing.

10. Fencing of an approved type must be erected in all cases of the railway passing through land held in fee simple. This applies to all lands now so held, or which may become so, during the working of the line, by reason of their sale or transfer, either by the Company, the Government, or present owner.

Level Crossings.

11. Public road level crossings in parts of the line which are fenced must be provided with either gates to close across the line, and gate houses, or with cattle-guards, as on the Government Railways, in which case gatekeepers will not be required.

Platforms of Bridges.

12. All platforms of bridges must be protected from fire.

Mile Posts and Gradient Boards.

13. Mile posts and gradient boards must be placed on the side of the line at a convenient height and distance, to be well seen by the engine driver.

Junctions.

14. Junctions must be protected by home and distant signals, and connected with the stations on either side by telegraph or telephone.

Distant signals must be weighted so as to fly to danger in the event of the wire breaking.

Sidings.

15. All sidings must be supplied with a locked chock block to prevent wagons fouling the main line either by accident, carelessness, or design. All wagons left in a siding should have their brakes pinned down, and their wheels chocked in addition. At sidings where no station master or porter is in charge, the points should be securely padlocked.

Stations.

16. a. The minimum distance between the lines of Railways must be six (6) feet.

b. Facing points on the main line at ends of yards should be provided with self-acting indicators and lamps.

c. Platforms at stations must not be of less width than twelve feet, and should be of sufficient length to accommodate all ordinary passenger trains in use on the Railway.

d. No fixed column or object must be less than six feet from the edge of platform.

e. The ends of platforms must be ramped, and not stepped or ended abruptly.

f. All stations must be connected by telegraph or telephone.

g. Clocks should be placed at each station so as to be visible from the trains.

h. Turntables must be placed at a safe distance from the main line.

i. No switch handles should be worked between the lines of Railways.

WORKING OF THE RAILWAY.

Passenger Trains to be fitted with automatic continuous brakes.

17. All passenger engines, carriages, and vans must be fitted with a continuous automatic brake of the same system as that in use on the Government Railways, so as to secure uniformity and facilitate the interchange of vehicles.

18. All engines and brake vans must, in addition, be provided with hand-power brakes, in case of failure of or any accident happening to the automatic gear. In like manner, the couplings of the rolling stock should be capable of being easily adapted to those in use on the Government Railways.

Guard's brake at the tail of every passenger train.

19. There should be a guard's brake van with a guard in it at the tail of every train, and it should be the duty of the guard to keep a constant look-out from it along his train.

Communication between guard and driver.

20. There should be a means of communication provided between the guard at the tail of every passenger train and the engine driver.

Engines not to run tender first.

21. Engines with passenger trains should not, as far as it is possible to prevent it, be run tender first.

Second engine on a train.

22. In the event of a second engine being required it must be coupled to the first one, and in no case to the rear of the train.

Locomotives to be fitted with spark arresters.

23. Locomotives must be fitted with an efficient system of spark arrester, not only in the smoke box or chimney, but also in the front and back of the ash pans.

Tyres to be properly secured.

24. The tyres of all wheels should be so secured to the rims of wheels, as to prevent their flying open if fractured.

It is recommended that tyres be secured with studs, and in no case with through bolts.

Tyres to be examined en route.

25. Tyres, couplings, axle boxes, &c., should be examined on all trains, at convenient distances, to ascertain that they are in proper order for running.

Records to be kept.

26. Records must be carefully kept of the work performed by the wearing parts of the rolling stock, to afford practical information in regard to them, and to prevent their being retained in use longer than is desirable.

Cattle trucks to be disinfected.

27. All cattle trucks should be disinfected after each journey, and plainly marked with the date when this was last done.

Cattle to be watered.

28. In cases when cattle are more than twelve hours in transit, particularly in the summer months, provision must be made for supplying them with water, either at stations or in the trucks.

Color blindness.

29. All railway servants should be examined carefully for color blindness. No guard, driver, or fireman who is unable clearly to distinguish color should be employed in any of these capacities.

Staff system to be adopted on single lines.

30. For single lines the staff and ticket system for working traffic as in use on the Eastern Railway is recommended for adoption.

Responsibility of the Companies not affected by these Regulations.

31. These regulations, so far as the working is concerned, are not to be considered as affecting or diminishing the responsibility of the Company in the event of accident, loss, or negligence, but with the intent to secure, as far as possible, uniformity of working between the Government Railways and private companies to the advantage of both.

Regulations may be amended.

32. These regulations can, from time to time, be amended or added to at the discretion of the Commissioner of Railways.
