The proportions of the materials to be strictly observed, and to be ascertained by careful admeasurement; and the mixing either by machine or hand to be most carefully done with clean water, and, if mixed by hand, the material to be turned over dry before the water is added.

The walls to be carried up regularly and in parallel frames of equal height, and the surface of the concrete filled in, the frames to be left rough and uneven to form a key for the next frame of concrete.

The maximum projection of all gratings or frames over areas, whether they be open frames or filled with slabs of glass or lenses, shall be twelve inches, measuring from the general line of the front of the walls at one foot above the ground level, and the maximum length of each shall be six feet.

b. Where more than one area grating, or such other covering is permitted in the front of one house or building, the division between each shall be not less than nine inches, and be formed by a solid piece of hard stone, not less than nine inches wide, and nine inches deep, such stone to be securely pinned into, or to rest upon, the brickwork, not less than six inches at each end; these stone curbs shall be fixed to the level of the footways; the gratings or frames shall be securely let into the curbs, and be run with lead, and not be permitted to open.

c. Where covered with open iron gratings, the gratings shall be made with frames or borders; the bars of the gratings shall be fixed at right angles with the house, and the space or width between each bar shall not exceed one inch and a half; each bar shall not be more than three-quarters of an inch in width on the surface, and not less than one inch in transverse sectional area.

f. That the maximum projection of the openings to cellars or cellar flaps be eighteen inches, measuring from the front line of the wall of the house at twelve inches above the ground level, and the maximum width of the openings be four feet; that they be surrounded at the footway level by curbs made of hard stone, not less than nine inches wide upon the face; that the flaps be securely fastened from the under side, and be made so as to shut on to ledges or rabbets in stone curbs, and to open outwards.

g. That the coverings of cellar openings be made of jarrah wood only, and of sufficient thickness.

All woodwork fixed in any external wall, and frames of doors and windows of shops on the ground storey of any building shall be set back four inches at the least from the external face of such wall. But loophole frames and frames of doors and windows may be fixed flush with the face of any external wall.

Provided that it shall be lawful for the Council to exempt from the provisions of this By-law, jarrah, teak, or other wood, provided the work be constructed to the satisfaction of the Surveyor.

9. a. Every bressummer in an external, internal, or party wall shall be rolled steel or iron, and shall have a bearing in the direction of its length of four inches at least at each end upon a sufficient pier of brick or stone, or upon an iron storey post fixed on a solid foundation, in addition to its bearing upon any party wall, or external wall, and the Surveyor shall have power in his discretion to require that every bressummer shall have such other storey posts, iron columns, stanchions, or piers of brick or stone, or corbels, as may be sufficient to carry the superstructure and the ends of such bressummer, shall not be placed nearer to the centre line of the party walls than four inches.

b. At each end of every metallic bressummer a space shall be left equal to one quarter of an inch for every ten feet, and also for any fractional part of ten feet of the length of such bressummer to allow for expansion.

In a street or way of a width not greater than thirty feet, any shop front may project beyond the external wall of the building to which it belongs to any extent not exceeding five inches, and any cornice of any shop front may project to any extent not exceeding thirteen inches; and in any street or way of a width greater than thirty feet, any shop front may project to any extent not exceeding ten inches, and any cornice of any such shop front may project to any extent, not exceeding eighteen inches, beyond the external wall of the building to which it belongs over the ground of the owner of the building, provided that this provision shall not authorise in any such street the projection of any part of any such shop front other than the cornice on or over the public way, or any land to be given up to the public way.

4. No part of the woodwork of any shop front shall be fixed higher than twenty-five feet above the level of the pavement of the public footpath in front of the shop. No part of the woodwork of any shop front shall be fixed nearer than four inches to the centre of the party wall where the adjoining premises are separated by a party wall, or nearer than four inches to the face of the wall of the adjoining premises where the adjoining premises have a separate wall, unless a pier or corbel of stone, brick, or other incombustible material, four inches wide at the least, be placed as high as such woodwork, and projecting throughout an inch at the least in front thereof between such woodwork and the centre of the party wall, of the separate wall, as the case may be.

5. In a street of a width of not less than forty feet to a building, the front wall of which is not at less distance than forty feet from the opposite boundary of the street, bay windows to dwelling houses may be erected on the land belonging to the owner of the building, notwithstanding the provisions of these By-laws, relating to buildings beyond the general line of buildings in streets, provided that such bay windows—

a. Do not exceed three storeys in height above the level of the footway;

b. Do not project more than three feet from the main wall of the building to which they are attached;

c. Do not project in any part within the prescribed distance of the centre of the roadway;

f. Are not constructed upon any part of the public way, or upon any land agreed to be given up to the public way; and

g. Shall not be used for trade purposes.

(Bay windows, to which the foregoing rules do not apply, shall not be erected.)

7. The roof, flat, or gutter of every building, and every balcony, verandah, shop-front, or other similar projection or projecting window, shall be so arranged and constructed, and so supplied with gutters and pipes, as to prevent the water therefrom from dropping upon or running over any public way.

8. Except in so far as is permitted by this By-law in the case of shop-fronts and projecting windows, and with the exception of water pipes and their appurtenances, copings, string courses, cornices, facias, window dressings, and other like architectural decorations, no projection from any building shall extend beyond the general line of buildings in any street.

17. 1. Chimneys built on corbels of brick, stone, or other incombustible materials may be erected if the work so corbelled out does not project from the wall more than the thickness of the wall measured immediately below the corbel, but all other chimneys shall be built on solid foundations, and with footings similar to the footings of the wall against which they are built, unless they are carried upon iron girders, with direct bearings upon any party wall, external, or cross walls, to the satisfaction of the Surveyor.

2. Chimneys and flues having proper soot-doors of not less than forty square inches may be constructed at any angle, but in no case shall any flue be inclined at a less angle than forty-five degrees to the horizon, and every angle shall be properly rounded.

domestic building, and the depth of such court from the eaves or top of the parapet to the ceiling of the ground storey exceeds the length or breadth of such court, adequate provision for the ventilation of such court shall be made and maintained by the owner of the building by means of a communication between the lower end of the court and the outer air.

No habitable room not having a window directly opening into the external air otherwise than into a court enclosed on every side shall be constructed in any building, unless the width of such court, measured from such window to the opposite wall, shall be equal to half the height measured from the sill of such window to the eaves or top of the parapet of the opposite wall.

Provided that a court of which the greater dimension does not exceed twice the less dimension shall be held to comply with this section if a court of the same area, but square in shape, would comply therewith. No habitable room above the level of the ground storey not having a window directly opening into the external air otherwise than into a court open on one side, the depth whereof, measured from the open side, exceeds twice the width, shall be constructed in any building unless every window of such room be placed not nearer to the opposite wall of such court, or to any other building, than one-half the height of the top of such wall or building above the level of the sill of such window.
