3. A "Main Magazine" shall consist of—

- A building situated on the surface of the ground and at a distance of 100 yards from any other building, works, or public road; provided that the magazine shall be surrounded by substantial mounds of earth, at least four feet thick, at a height level with the eaves of the building; or,
- An excavation in the ground; or so arranged that the roof of the magazine shall not be less than 15 feet below the surface of the ground; or,

6. The quantity of explosives allowed in any Distributing Magazine shall not exceed the supply required for one working day in the level in which the Distributing Magazine is situated.

7. No explosives shall be taken into any working face except in a securely covered case or canister, nor in any quantity exceeding what would be required for use during one shift in such face.

8. Detonators shall in all cases be stored apart from other explosives.

9. Every Main Magazine shall be in charge of a man specially appointed for the purpose, who shall have in his possession the keys of the magazine, and who shall be responsible for the safe storage of explosives contained therein; and the distribution of all explosives from any Distributing Magazine shall be under the supervision of an authorised person who may be one of the men at work in such level.
