* Averages for three years only.

The climate map shows that the summer is making itself felt in the tropics, 100 degrees or over being recorded at all stations there, but the rainy season has not yet set in.

South of the tropics both the day and night temperatures were considerably below the average for previous years, and the atmospheric pressure throughout the State below normal.

A good rainfall was again experienced in the agricultural districts, being especially heavy between Katanning and Bridgetown towards the end of the month. Very little fell North of Geraldton, and slightly above the average inland over the goldfields.

Two storms of rather a rare type are worth noting. The first made its appearance off the West coast on the 16th; working its way down the coast as far as Bunbury, it passed inland on the following day. Light to heavy rain was recorded from Sharks Bay Southwards, and very rough weather experienced along the Bight on the 18th. The second storm, at the end of the month, was of a similar type. It was preceded by warm and sultry weather, and accompanied by thunderstorms and general rains throughout the State South of the latitude of Geraldton, being especially heavy in the extreme South-West.

A fall of snow was recorded at a few places in the South-West on the 10th of the month.

W. E. COOKE, Government Astronomer.
