MUNICIPAL BY-LAWS.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Perth, 29th June, 1905.*

^{37/2}
¹⁹⁰⁵
HIS Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to confirm the following By-laws made by the Council of the Municipality of North Perth, under "The Building Act, 1884," and amendments thereto, and "The Municipal Institutions Act, 1900."

F. D. NORTH,
Under Secretary.

MUNICIPALITY OF NORTH PERTH.

BY-LAWS TO REGULATE BUILDINGS, ALTERATIONS, ETC., WITHIN THE MUNICIPALITY OF NORTH PERTH.

IN pursuance of the powers in that behalf contained in "The Building Act, 1884," and the Acts amending the same, and "The Municipal Institutions Act, 1900," the Council of the Municipality of North Perth doth hereby repeal By-laws Nos. one (1) to thirty-nine (39) gazetted on the fourteenth day of March, 1902, and hereby in pursuance of such powers and authorities aforesaid, makes and publishes the following By-laws in lieu thereof:—

INTERPRETATION.

1. In the construction of these By-laws, unless the context otherwise requires:—

- (a.) The several words mentioned in the second section of "The Building Act, 1884," with the exception of the words "Public Building," shall have the same meaning as is attached to such words by the said section.
- (b.) The expression "Building" shall mean any building or erection of whatsoever nature hereafter erected or wholly or substantially re-erected.
- (c.) The expression "level of the ground" shall mean the level of the ground as determined by the Surveyor.
- (d.) The expression "foundation" applied to a wall having footings shall mean the solid ground or artificially formed support on which the footings of the wall rest.
- (e.) The expression "footings" shall mean the extra spread of wall between the base of the wall and the foundations.
- (f.) The expression "base" applied to a wall having footings shall mean the underside of the course immediately above the footings, or in the case of a wall carried by a bressumer, above such bressumer.
- (g.) The expression "bressumer" shall mean a metallic or trussed or flitched wooden girder which carries a wall.
- (h.) The expression "ground storey" shall mean the storey of a building to which there is an entrance from the outside on or near the level of the ground, and where there are two such storeys then the lower of the two.

Provided that no storey of which the upper surface of the floor is more than four (4) feet below the level of the adjoining pavement shall be deemed to be the ground storey.

- (i.) The expression "basement storey" shall mean any storey of a building which is under the ground storey.
- (j.) The expression "first storey" shall mean that storey of a building which is next above the ground storey, the successive storeys above the first storey being the second, the third storey and so on to the topmost storey.
- (k.) The expression "topmost storey" shall mean the uppermost storey in a building, whether constructed wholly or partly in the roof or not, and whether used or constructed or adapted for human habitation or not.
- (l.) The expression "external wall" shall mean the outer wall when under a main roof, or the outside wall of a habitable room, or the outer wall of the main building.
- (m.) The expression "party wall" shall apply to every wall used or built as a separation of any building from any other building, such buildings being occupied by different persons.
- (n.) The expression "cross wall" shall mean a wall used or constructed to be used in any part of its height as an inner wall of a building for separation of one part from another part of the building, that building being wholly in or being constructed or adapted to be wholly in one occupation.
- (o.) The expression "party fence wall" shall mean a wall used or constructed to be used as a separation of adjoining lands of different owners, and standing on lands of different owners, and not being part of a building, but does not include a wall constructed on the land of one owner, the footings of which project into the land of another owner.

(p.) The expression "party arch" shall mean an arch separating adjoining buildings, storeys, or rooms belonging to different owners, or occupied, or constructed, or adapted to be occupied by different persons, or separating a building from a public way or a private way leading to premises in other occupation.

(q.) The expression "party structure" shall mean a party wall, or other structure separating two buildings, when occupied as separate tenements, and approached by different staircases or separate entrances from without.

(r.) The expression "height" in relation to any wall shall mean the measurement taken from the level of the base of such wall to the level of the top of the parapet, or where there is no parapet, to the level of the top of the external wall, or, in the case of gabled buildings, to a level half-way between the base and the apex of such gable.

Provided that where pediments are constructed above the top of the parapet or above the top of the wall, as the case may be, the height of the wall for the whole width of the pediment shall be measured from the base of the wall to a level half-way between the base and the top of such pediment.

- (s.) The expression "dwelling-house" shall mean a building used or constructed or adapted to be used wholly or principally for human habitation, not being a building the property of or occupied by or under the control or management of His Majesty's Government, or any department thereof.
- (t.) The expression "domestic building" includes a dwelling-house, suite of offices, and any other building not being a public building or building of the warehouse class, or a building the property of or occupied by or under the control or management of His Majesty's Government or any department thereof.
- (u.) The expression "public building" shall mean and include every building used as a church, chapel, or other place of public worship, also every building used for purposes of public instruction, also every building used as a college, public hall, hospital, theatre, public concert room, public exhibition room, or for any other public purposes, not being a building the property of or occupied by or under the control or management of His Majesty's Government or any department thereof.
- (v.) The expression "building of the warehouse class" shall mean a warehouse, factory, manufactory, brewery, or distillery, and any other buildings exceeding in cubical contents one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) cubic feet, which is neither a public building nor a domestic building, nor a building the property of or occupied by or under the control or management of His Majesty's Government or any department thereof.
- (w.) The expression "inhabited" applied to a room shall mean a room in which some person passes the night, or which is used as a living room, including a room with respect to which there is a probable presumption (until the contrary is shown) that some person passes the night therein, or that it is used as a living room.
- (x.) The expression "habitable" applied to a room shall mean a room constructed or adapted to be inhabited.
- (y.) The expression "building owner" shall mean such one of the owners of adjoining land as is desirous of building, or such one of the owners of buildings, storeys, or rooms separated from one another by a party wall or party structure as does or is desirous of doing a work affecting that party wall or party structure.
- (z.) The expression "adjoining owner" shall mean the owner or one of the owners, and "adjoining occupier" shall mean the occupier or one of the occupiers of land, buildings, storeys, or rooms adjoining those of the building owner.

Application for Building License

3. Every person intending to erect any building, or alter, or add to any building within the Municipality of North Perth shall, three days before commencing to erect, alter, or add to the same, make application in the form provided in Schedule I. to this By-law, and deposit for a period of three days with the Surveyor, for his approval, a copy of the drawings showing the plan, elevation, and sections of such proposed building, addition, or alteration, together with full and complete specifications of the work proposed to be done. A locality plan, showing the position of such building, shall also be deposited with the Surveyor, to remain permanently in his custody. No person shall commence to erect, alter, or add to such building until the Surveyor shall have signified his approval of such plans and specifications by the issue to such person of a certificate of such approval, to be called a "building license."

- (a.) All drawings shall be in ink on drawing or cartridge paper or tracing cloth of at least 15 inches by 22 inches in size. The drawings shall consist of complete plans of every storey, elevation of external fronts, and one or more sections, transverse or longitudinal, showing heights of storeys, depths of foundations, level of ground, construction of walls, floors, roofs, etc.; all clearly figured and dimensioned in feet and inches; also a locality plan showing location of proposed site with cardinal or North point, position of proposed buildings, and any existing buildings on the site or on the allotment, the position of any existing drains, and the position, size, depth, and gradient of proposed drains, and the position of inlets, traps, and ventilators, the distance from the boundaries of the allotment of the proposed buildings shall be figured in feet and inches.

- (b.) Distinctive colouring shall be used on the locality plan for new and old buildings.
- (c.) The locality plan shall be drawn to a scale of 16 feet to 1 inch, and all other drawings to a scale of not less than 8 feet to 1 inch.
- (d.) All plans, drawings, and specifications must be signed by the building owner or his duly authorised agent.

4. No person who shall have obtained a "building license" in respect of any building shall in the construction of such building depart from the plans or specifications which have been approved by the Surveyor, without his consent in writing first had and obtained, and such alterations or departures from approved plans and specifications shall be drawn, described, and endorsed on and in the plans and specifications.

Sites and foundations of buildings.

5. No person who shall hereafter erect any house or building shall construct the foundations of any such house or building upon any site or portion of any site which shall have been filled in or covered with any material impregnated with or mixed with faecal or animal or vegetable matter, or which shall have been filled up or covered with dust or slop or other refuse or upon which any such matter or refuse shall have been deposited, unless and until such matter or refuse shall have been properly removed by excavation or otherwise from such site. Any holes caused by such excavation shall, if not used for a basement or cellar be filled in with hard brick, or dry rubbish or concrete, sand, or other material to be approved by the Surveyor.

6. Every person who shall hereafter erect a building shall cause the foundations of the walls of such building to be formed of a bed of good concrete, not less than nine inches thick, and projecting at least four inches on each side of the lowest course of footings of such walls. If the site be upon a natural bed of gravel or sand, concrete may be omitted from the foundations of the walls. The concrete shall be composed of clean gravel, broken hard brick, properly burnt ballast or other hard material, well mixed with properly burnt lime or cement in the following proportions: In the case of lime, not less than one part of lime to four parts of other material; in the case of cement, one part of cement to two parts of sand and four parts of stone.

General.

7. Every person who shall hereafter erect any building in Clifton and Vincent Streets and Fitzgerald Street (between Vincent and Burt streets) and also such other streets or roads as may be hereafter declared by the Municipal Council, shall cause the same to be enclosed with walls constructed of brick, stone, or other incombustible substances, with the footings resting upon the solid ground or upon concrete or upon other solid substructure.

8. Every person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to any building shall cause every wall erected in the course of such work, which shall be constructed of brick, stone, or other similar substances, to be properly bonded, and solidly put together with mortar and cement, and shall not suffer the external face of any pier, bay between piers, or any other main wall of a building to be carried up otherwise than truly vertical, without any overhanging whatsoever, except as may be permitted in these By-laws, Clause 28, "Projections."

9. Every person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to any building shall cause every wall of such building erected in the course of such work, and which may be built at an angle with another wall, to be properly bonded therewith.

10. Every person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to any building shall construct every wall of such building erected in the course of such work (other than a wall carried on a bressummer) so as to rest upon proper footings. He shall cause the projection of the bottom of every wall on each side of the wall to be at least equal to one-half of the thickness of the wall at its base unless an adjoining wall interferes, in which case the projection may be omitted where that wall adjoins. He shall also cause the diminution of the footing of every wall to be formed in regular offsets, and he shall cause the height from the bottom of such footing to the base of the wall to be at least equal to two-thirds of the thickness of the wall at its base. Provided that in the case of domestic buildings of one storey, in the event of a wall being thickened four inches or more to carry a wall plate, the footings need not project in proportion to, or in respect of such thickening.

11. For the purposes of this By-law, the measurement of height of storeys and of height and length of walls shall be determined by the following rules:—

- (1.) The height of storeys shall be measured as follows:—

- (a.) The height of a topmost storey shall be measured from the level of the underside of its floor joists up to the level of the top of the parapet, or, if there is no parapet, up to the level of the under surface of the tie of the roof or other covering or if there is no tie, or in the case of gables, then up to the level of half the vertical height of the rafters or other support of the roof.

- (b.) Pediments constructed on top of walls or on top of parapets shall be included in the topmost storey, and the measurements of same shall be made in accordance with the rule laid down in Subsection (r.) of the Interpretation Clause.

- (c.) The height of every storey, other than a topmost storey, shall be measured from the level of the underside of the floor joists of the storey up to the level of the underside of the floor joists of the storey next above it.

- (2.) Walls shall be deemed to be divided into distinct lengths by return walls. The length of every wall shall be measured from the centre of one return wall to the centre of another, provided that such walls are external, party, or cross walls of the thickness required under this By-law, and are bonded into the walls so deemed to be divided.

12. Every person who shall cause the underpinning of walls and chimneys shall cause such underpinning to be built with bricks or stone bedded in cement to the full thickness of the old wall or work if underpinned in brick, and one-third thicker if underpinned in stone, and with proper footings, or to an additional thickness if the increased height of the wall so requires, and shall cause such underpinning to rest on the solid ground, or on concrete, or on other solid substructure as a foundation, and shall cause the whole to be executed to the satisfaction of the Surveyor.

13. Every person who shall thicken a wall shall cause such thickening to be executed with brick or stone work in cement, properly bonded to the old work, to the satisfaction of the Surveyor, provided that in no case shall any person thicken any wall except after notice served on the Surveyor of his intention so to do.

Domestic Buildings.

14. Every person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to any domestic buildings shall construct every external wall and every party wall erected in the course of such work in accordance with the following rules, and in every case the thickness prescribed shall be the minimum thickness of which any such wall may be constructed, provided that the several rules shall apply only to walls built of bricks or of suitable stone or other blocks of hard and incombustible substance, the beds or courses being horizontal:—

- (a.) Where the wall does not exceed twenty-five feet in height its thickness shall be as follows:—

If the wall does not exceed thirty feet in length, and does not comprise more than two storeys, it shall be eight and a half inches thick for its whole height.

If the wall exceeds thirty feet in length, or comprises more than two storeys, it shall be thirteen inches thick below the topmost storey, and eight and a half inches thick for the rest of its height.

- (b.) Where the wall exceeds twenty-five feet but does not exceed forty feet in height its thickness shall be as follows:

If the wall does not exceed thirty-five feet in length it shall be thirteen inches thick below the topmost storey, and eight and a half inches thick for the rest of its height.

If the wall exceeds thirty-five feet in length, it shall be seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of one storey, then thirteen inches thick for the rest of its height below the topmost storey, and eight and a half inches thick for the rest of its height.

- (c.) Where the wall exceeds forty feet, but does not exceed fifty feet in height, its thickness shall be as follows:

If the wall does not exceed thirty-five feet in length, it shall be seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of one storey, then thirteen inches for the rest of its height below the topmost storey, and eight and a half inches for the rest of its height.

If the wall exceeds thirty-five feet, but does not exceed forty-five feet in length, it shall be seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of two storeys, then thirteen inches thick for the rest of its height.

If the wall exceeds forty-five feet in length, it shall be twenty-one and a half inches thick for the height of one storey, then seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of the next storey, and then thirteen inches thick for the rest of its height.

- (d.) Where the wall exceeds fifty feet, but does not exceed sixty feet in height, its thickness shall be as follows:

If the wall does not exceed forty-five feet in length, it shall be seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of two storeys, and thirteen inches thick for the rest of its height.

If the wall exceeds forty-five feet in length, it shall be twenty-one inches and a half thick for the height of one storey, then seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of the next two storeys, and then thirteen inches thick for the rest of its height.

- (e.) Where the wall exceeds sixty feet, but does not exceed seventy feet in height, its thickness shall be as follows:

If the wall does not exceed forty-five feet in length, it shall be twenty-one and a half inches thick for the height of one storey, then seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of the next two storeys, and then thirteen inches thick for the rest of its height.

If the wall exceeds forty-five feet in length, it shall be increased in thickness in each of the storeys below the uppermost two storeys by four and a half inches (subject to the provision hereinafter contained respecting distribution of piers).

- (f.) Where the wall exceeds seventy feet, but does not exceed eighty feet in height, its thickness shall be as follows:

If the wall does not exceed forty-five feet in length, it shall be twenty-one and a half inches thick for the height of one storey, then seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of the next three storeys, and then thirteen inches thick for the rest of its height.

If the wall exceeds forty-five feet in length, it shall be increased in thickness in each of the storeys below the uppermost two storeys by four and a half inches (subject to the provision hereinafter contained respecting distribution of piers).

- (g.) Where the wall exceeds eighty feet, but does not exceed ninety feet in height, its thickness shall be as follows:

If the wall does not exceed forty-five feet in length, it shall be twenty-six inches thick for the height of one storey, then twenty-one and a half inches thick for the height of the next storey, then seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of the next three storeys, and then thirteen inches thick for the rest of its height.

If the wall exceeds forty-five feet in length, it shall be increased in thickness in each of the storeys below the uppermost two storeys by four and a half inches (subject to the provision hereinafter contained respecting distribution of piers).

- (h.) Where the wall exceeds ninety feet, but does not exceed one hundred feet in height, its thickness shall be as follows:

If the wall does not exceed forty-five feet in length, it shall be twenty-six inches thick for the height of one storey, then twenty-one and a half inches thick for the height of the next two storeys, and then seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of the next three storeys, and then thirteen inches thick for the rest of its height.

If the wall exceeds forty-five feet in length, it shall be increased in thickness in each of the storeys below the uppermost two storeys by four and a half inches (subject to the provision hereinafter contained respecting distribution in piers).

- (i.) Where the walls exceed one hundred feet, but does not exceed one hundred and twenty feet in height, its thickness shall be as follows:

If the wall does not exceed forty-five feet in length, it shall be thirty inches thick for the height of one storey, then twenty-six inches thick for the height of the next two storeys, then twenty-one and a half inches thick for the height of the next two storeys, then seventeen and a half inches thick for the height of the next three storeys, and then thirteen inches thick for the rest of its height.

If the wall exceeds forty-five feet in length, it shall be increased in thickness in each of the storeys below the uppermost two storeys by four and a half inches (subject to the provision hereinafter contained respecting distribution in piers).

- (j.) If any storey exceeds in height sixteen times the thickness prescribed for its walls by the foregoing rules, the thickness of each external and party wall throughout such storey shall be increased to one-sixteenth part of the height of the storey, and the thickness of each external and party wall below that storey shall be increased to a like extent (subject to the provision hereinafter contained respecting distribution in piers).

- (k.) Where by any of the foregoing rules relating to the thickness of external walls and party walls of domestic buildings, an increase of thickness is required in the case of a wall exceeding sixty feet in height and forty-five feet in length, or in the case of a storey exceeding in height sixteen times the thickness prescribed for its walls, or in the case of a wall below that storey the increased thickness may be confined to piers properly distributed, of which the collective widths amount to one-fourth part of the length of the wall.

- (l.) In buildings four storeys high, where the cross walls are supported from the ground, and where the cross wall in the highest storey is four and a half inches thick, the cross walls in the two lower storeys shall be at least eight and a half inches thick, and in the lowest storey thirteen inches thick. In three storey buildings similar cross walls, which are four and a half inches in the highest storey shall be at least eight and a half inches in the two lower storeys. In buildings two storeys high having cross walls running through both storeys, such walls in the lower storey shall be not less than eight and a half inches thick. Cross walls in upper storeys, not supported from the ground, shall be carried on bressummers.

15. The external walls of domestic buildings not exceeding two storeys, and the external walls of the two topmost storeys of domestic buildings exceeding two storeys, may be built with a cavity not exceeding two inches wide, provided:—

- (a.) That the collective thickness of the walling on the two sides of the cavity shall not be less than if the wall were built without a cavity.

- (b.) That the walling on each side of such cavity shall have a minimum thickness of four and a half inches.
- (c.) That the walls on each side of such cavity be tied with galvanised iron or other non-corrosive metal, or by earthenware tie blocks, in the proportion of at least four ties to every square yard of wall surface.
- (d.) That the walls of all storeys below the cavity walls shall be thickened beyond the thickness specified for similar walls in the preceding clause, if required, in order to seat such cavity walls so that the same shall not overhang.

Public Buildings.

16. If a public building corresponds in form or structure or disposition with a domestic building, then the rules which obtain for domestic buildings shall apply to such public buildings, provided that the thickness of all external and party walls, and the width of their footings be at least four inches more than is required for similar walls of the domestic buildings; but should such public buildings correspond in form or structure or disposition with a building of the warehouse class, then the rules which obtain for buildings of the warehouse class shall apply to such public buildings, provided that the thickness of all external and party walls and the width of their footings be at least four inches more than is required for similar walls of a building of the warehouse class.

Should, however, such public buildings not correspond in form and structure to either a domestic building, or to a building of the warehouse class, then such building shall be subject, as to its walls and other construction, to the special approval of the Building Surveyor.

Rubble Stone Walls.

17. Every person who shall hereafter use stone in coursed or random coursed rubble for the construction of any walls in the erection of any building shall cause the thickness of such stone walls to be at least one-third greater than is prescribed for brick, and such walls shall not in any case exceed twenty-five (25) feet in height, nor be less than twelve (12) inches in thickness.

Party Walls.

18. Every person who shall hereafter construct a party wall shall cause such wall, if in a public building or a building of the warehouse class, to be carried up of a thickness equal to a thickness of such wall in the topmost storey, and if in any other building to be carried up of a thickness of at least eight and a half inches.

- (a.) Above the roof, flat, or gutter of the highest building adjoining thereto to such a height as will give a distance in a public building or a building of the warehouse class exceeding thirty feet in height of at least three feet, and in any other building of fifteen inches, measured at right angles to the slope of the roof, or fifteen inches above the highest part of any flat or gutter, as the case may be; provided that in dwellings built semi-detached in pairs, the party wall may be made to finish on the underside of the roof covering, which shall be bedded in mortar to the top of such party wall.
- (b.) Above any turret, dormer, lantern light, or other erection of combustible material fixed upon the roof or flat of any building within four feet from such party wall, so as to extend at least twelve inches higher and wider on each side than such erection.
- (c.) Above any part of any roof opposite thereto, and within four feet therefrom.

19. No person who shall hereafter erect a building shall make in any party wall any chase which shall be wider than 14 inches, nor more than four and a half inches deep from the face of such wall, nor shall leave less than eight and a half inches in thickness at the back or opposite side thereof, or which shall be within a distance of seven feet from any other chase in the same side of the wall, or within thirteen inches from an external wall. No person shall make any chase in a wall of less thickness than thirteen inches.

Open and Closed Areas.

20. In the construction of gratings and frames over areas no person shall cause or allow the maximum projection of any such gratings or frames, whether they be open frames or filled with slabs of glass or lenses, to exceed eighteen inches, measuring from the general line of the front of the walls at one foot above the ground level, or the maximum length thereof to exceed six feet; provided that—

- (a.) Where more than one area grating, or such other covering is permitted in the front of one house or building the division between each shall be not less than nine inches, and shall be formed by a solid piece of hard stone not less than nine inches wide and nine inches deep, such stone to be securely pinned into or to rest upon the brickwork not less than six inches at each end; such stone kerbs shall be fixed to the level of the footways, the gratings and frames shall be securely let into the kerbs, and be run with lead, and not be permitted to open.
- (b.) Where covered with open iron gratings, the gratings shall be made with frames or borders, the bars of the gratings shall be fixed at right angles with the house and the space or width between each bar shall not exceed one inch and a half; each bar shall be not more than three-quarters ($\frac{3}{4}$) of an inch on the surface, and not less than one square inch in transverse sectional area.

- (c.) The coverings over areas, where intended to be closed or filled with glass slabs, shall be formed by iron gratings or frames, the bars shall not be more than three inches apart, and fixed at right angles to each other; each bar shall have at least one square inch of sectional area, and the spaces between the bars shall be filled with glass at least one inch in thickness.
- (d.) No covering of any material or description shall be permitted over any area openings, excepting those formed by open iron gratings or by iron frames filled with slabs of glass or lenses as before described, or Yorkshire flagging four inches thick.

Cellar Flaps.

21. In the construction of openings to cellars or cellar flaps, no person shall cause or allow the maximum projection of such openings or cellar flaps to exceed eighteen inches, measuring from the front line of the wall of the house at twelve inches above the ground level, or the maximum width of the openings to exceed four feet; such openings shall be surrounded at the footway level by kerbs made of hard stone not less than nine inches wide on the face; or of jarrah not less than nine inches by four inches; such flaps shall be securely fastened from the underside, and be made so as to shut on to ledges or rabbated in stone kerbs, and to open outwards; all cellar flaps shall be made of jarrah wood, or iron, or steel, or iron gratings with wooden fillings; or of artificial stone. No staircase or steps shall be fixed beneath the cellar flaps, and no openings to basements shall be allowed or used for the purpose of constant access, but only for the purpose of occasionally raising and lowering goods, or removing dust, etc., and such openings shall be closed immediately after such operations are completed.

Description and Quality of the Substances of Walls.

22. Every person who shall hereafter erect a building shall cause—

- (a.) The external and party walls of every such building, except in the case of concrete buildings, to be constructed of bricks, stone, or of wood covered with wood or iron. Wood in all external walls to be jarrah.
- (b.) Bricks shall be at least eight and a half inches by four and one quarter inches by two and three-quarters inches of good, hard, sound, well burnt quality; stone shall be free from vents, cracks, or large sand holes, and laid on its natural bed.
- (c.) Similar materials to be used in the portions of party and cross walls below the surface or level of the ground and above the roof, including the chimney stack; cut bricks may be used in arches over recesses and openings in or for facings of external walls.
- (d.) All brick and stone work to be put together with lime mortar or with cement mortar. Lime mortar to be composed of freshly burnt lime and clean sharp sand, free from earthy matter, and mixed in the proportions of one part lime to three parts of sand. Cement mortar to be composed of Portland cement, or other cement of equal quality, and clean sharp sand free from earthy matter, mixed in the proportion of at least one part of cement to three parts of sand.
- (e.) Every wall of such building to have a damp course composed of materials impervious to moisture, extending throughout its whole thickness at the level of the lowest floor above ground level. Every external wall or enclosing wall of all habitable rooms and their appurtenances, and of all cellars and areas which abut against the earth, to be protected by materials impervious to moisture.
- (f.) The top of every exposed party wall or parapet wall to be finished with one course of bricks set on edge in cement mortar, or by a coping of any other water-proof or fire-resisting material properly secured.
- (g.) All concrete used in the construction of walls to be composed of Portland cement, or other cement of equal quality, clean sharp sand and of clean gravel or broken bricks or stone or furnace clinkers, and clean water, mixed in the following proportions:—One part of cement to two parts of sand, and four parts of the coarse material, broken sufficiently small to pass through a two inch diameter ring. The proportions of the materials to be ascertained by careful measurement, and the first mixing either by machine or hand to be done dry before the water is added. The walls to be carried up regularly, and in parallel frames of equal height, the surface of the concrete to be well rammed, and to be properly cleaned for the next layer of concrete. The thickness of concrete walls to be equal at least to the thickness prescribed for brick walls. Such portions of concrete party walls and chimney stacks as are carried above the roofs of buildings to be rendered externally with cement and mortar.

Recesses and Openings in External Walls.

23. No person who shall hereafter erect a building shall make any recess or opening in any external wall of such building, unless—

- (a.) The back of such recess or opening be at the least eight and a half inches thick; and
- (b.) The aggregate area of recesses and openings above the ground storey do not exceed one-half of the whole area of the wall of the storey in which they are made.

Recesses and Openings in Party Walls.

24. No person who shall hereafter erect a building shall make any recess or opening in any party wall of such building, unless—

- (a.) The back of such recess or opening be at least eight and a half inches thick; and
- (b.) Over every recess so formed an arch of at least two rings of brickwork, of the full depth of the recess be turned on every storey except in the case of recesses formed for lifts; but where such recess does not exceed five inches in depth, corbelling in brick or stone may be substituted for the arching; and
- (c.) The aggregate area of all such recesses and openings does not exceed one-half of the whole area of the wall of the storey in which they are made; and
- (d.) Such recesses or openings do not come within thirteen inches of the inner face of the external walls.

United Buildings.

25. No person shall cause any building to be united, except where such buildings are wholly in one occupation, or are constructed or adapted to be so.

- (a.) No persons shall cause any buildings to be united if, when so united and considered as one building only, such buildings would not be in conformity with this By-law.
- (b.) No person shall make an opening in any party wall, or in two external walls dividing buildings, which buildings, if taken together, would contain more than two hundred and fifty thousand cubic feet, except under the following conditions:—

- (1.) Such opening shall not exceed in width seven feet, or in height eight feet, and such opening or openings taken together shall not exceed one-half of the length of such party wall, or such external walls on each floor of the building in which they occur.
- (2.) Such opening shall have the door jambs and head formed of brick, stone, or iron, and be closed by two wrought iron doors, each one quarter of an inch thick in the panel, at a distance from each other of the full thickness of the wall, fitted to rebated frames without woodwork of any kind, or by wrought iron sliding doors, or shutters properly constructed, fitted into grooved or rebated iron frames.
- (3.) If the thickness of the wall be not less than twenty-four inches, or the doors be placed at a distance from each other of not less than twenty-four inches, such opening may be nine feet six inches in height.

- (c.) Whenever any buildings which have been united cease to be in one occupation, the owner or owners thereof shall give notice to the Surveyor, and shall cause all openings in any party wall, or in any external walls uniting such buildings, to be stopped up with brick or stone work not less than thirteen inches in thickness (except in the case of a wall eight and a half inches thick, in which case eight and a half inches shall be sufficient) and properly bonded with such wall, and any timber not in conformity with this By-law placed in the wall shall be removed.

Bressummers.

26. Every person who shall hereafter erect a building shall cause every bressummer in any external, internal, or party wall to be of rolled steel or iron, or trussed or flitched wooden girder of approved strength, and to have a bearing in the direction of its length of at least six inches at each end upon a sufficient pier of brick or stone, or upon an iron storey post fixed on a solid foundation, in addition to its bearing upon any party wall or external wall, and he shall also cause such bressummer to have such other storey posts, iron columns, stanchions, or piers of brick or stone, or corbels, as may be sufficient to carry the superstructure. The ends of such bressummer shall not be placed nearer to each other or the opposite face of the party walls than four inches; provided that—

- (a.) At each end of every metallic bressummer a space shall be left equal to one quarter of an inch for every ten feet, and also for any fractional part of ten feet of the length of such bressummer to allow for expansion.
- (b.) Every bressummer bearing upon a party wall shall be borne by a templet or corbel of stone or iron tailed through at least half the thickness of the wall, and of the full breadth of the bressummer.
- (c.) Bressummers consisting of more than one joist shall be solidly bolted together with packing pieces filling in the vacant spaces between the webs of the joists, and shall have such additional plates of sufficient strength, calculated in accordance with recognised formula, riveted on to the top or bottom boom. Bressummers shall in no case have a less factor of safety than three for dead loads and five for live loads.

Timber in Walls.

27. Every person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to any building shall comply with the following regulations:—

- (a.) No bond timber or wood plate shall be built into any party wall, and the ends of any wooden beam or joists bearing on such wall shall be at least four and a half inches from each other, or from the opposite face of the wall.

- (b.) The end of any timber not permitted to be placed in or to have a bearing upon a party wall may be carried on a corbel or templet of stone or iron, or vitrified stoneware, tailed into the wall to a distance of at least eight and a half inches, or otherwise supported to the satisfaction of the Surveyor.
- (c.) All woodwork fixed in any external wall and frames of doors and windows of shops on the ground storey of any building (except loopholes, frames, or bressummer) shall be set back at the least four inches from the external face of such wall.
- (d.) If any gutter, any part of which is formed of combustible materials adjoin an external wall, such wall shall be carried up so as to form a parapet one foot at the least above the highest part of the gutter, and the thickness of the parapet so carried up shall be at least eight and a half inches throughout.
- (e.) No fascia or projecting eave constructed of inflammable materials shall be erected at a less distance than two feet six inches from the boundary of an adjoining property.

Projections.

28. Every person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to any building shall cause—

- (a.) All copings, cornices, stringcourses whatsoever, and corbelled projections of any party walls to be of brick, tile, stone, artificial stone, slate, cement, or other fire-proof material.
- (b.) Every cornice or other projection to be tailed into the wall of the building, and, where the projection thereof exceeds the thickness of the wall, to be weighed or tied down. No cornice to project more than two feet six inches over the public way or beyond the face of the external wall.

29. No person shall cause the plinth of any building to project beyond the surveyed building line except as follows, that is to say:—Plinths not exceeding two feet in height may project two and a half inches into the streets beyond the surveyed building line. Where streets are constructed on a gradient the height of the plinth may be varied if approved by the Surveyor.

30. No person shall cause the cornice of any shop front, the piers of which have been built upon the surveyed building line, to project beyond such piers and beyond such surveyed building line, except as follows:—In a street or way of a width not greater than thirty-three feet, such projection shall not exceed thirteen inches; in a street or way with a width greater than thirty-three feet, such projection shall not exceed eighteen inches.

31. No person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to any building shall cause any part of the woodwork of any shop front to be fixed higher than twenty-five feet above the pavement of the public footpath in front of the shop, or nearer than four and a half inches to the centre of the party wall, where the adjoining premises are separated by a party wall, or nearer than four and a half inches to the face of the wall of the adjoining premises, where the adjoining premises have a separate wall, unless a pier or corbel of stone, brick, or other incombustible material, at least four and a half inches wide, be placed as high as, and alongside such woodwork, and projecting throughout at least one inch in front thereof between such woodwork and the centre of the party wall or the separate wall, as the case may be.

32. Bay windows to any dwelling houses may be erected on the land of the owner of such house, provided that no such bay windows shall be erected except subject to the following conditions, viz.:—

- (1.) Such windows shall not exceed three storeys in height above the level of the footway.
- (2.) Shall be in no part nearer to the centre of the nearest party wall than the extreme amount of their projection from the main wall of the building to which they are attached.
- (3.) Shall not, taken together, exceed in width three-fifths the frontage of the building towards such street to which such bays face.

33. Oriel windows, turrets, and balconets to a building may be erected in a street of a width of not less than forty feet, or where the front wall of such building is at a distance of not less than forty feet from the opposite boundary of the street, provided that no such oriel window, turret, or balconet shall be erected except subject to the following conditions, viz.:—

- (1.) No part of such window, turret, or balconet shall extend more than three feet from the face of the front wall of such building, or more than twelve inches over the public way.
- (2.) No part of such window, turret, or balconet shall be less than ten feet above the level of the footway of the street.
- (3.) No part of such window, turret, or balconet (where same overhangs the public way) shall be within a distance of four feet of the centre of the nearest party wall.
- (4.) On no floor shall the total width of any oriel windows, turrets, or balconets, taken together, exceed three-fifths the length of the wall of the building of that floor.

34. Every person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to a building shall cause the roof, flat, or gutter of such building, and every shop front, bay window, oriel window, turret, balconet, or other similar projection erected in the course of such work to be so arranged and constructed, and so supplied with gutters and pipes as to prevent the water therefrom from dropping upon or running over any public way.

35. Except in so far as is permitted by this By-law in the case of shop fronts and projecting windows, and with the exception of water pipes and their appurtenances, copings, stringcourses, cornices, fascias, window dressings, and other like architectural decorations, no person shall cause or allow any projection from any building to extend beyond the surveyed building line in any street.

36. No person shall cause or allow any cornice, stringcourse, or other projection on any building to be constructed in such manner as to overlap or project in front of any adjoining property, unless with the consent of the owner of the adjoining property expressed in writing, and deposited in the hands of the Building Surveyor.

Chimneys.

37. Every person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to any building shall cause every chimney of such building erected in the course of such work to be built on solid foundations and with footings similar to the footings of the wall against which such chimney is built, unless it is carried upon iron girders, with direct bearings upon any party wall, external or cross walls, to the satisfaction of the Surveyor; provided, nevertheless, that in cases in which it is impracticable to comply with the above provisions, such person may cause any chimney of such building to be built on corbels of brick, stone, or other incombustible materials, if the work so corbelled out does not project from the wall more than the thickness of the wall measured immediately below such corbel.

38. All chimneys and flues shall have proper soot doors of not less than forty square inches, which shall be at least fifteen inches distant from any woodwork, and no person shall hereafter construct any chimney flue so as to incline at a less angle than forty-five degrees to horizon, or without providing proper soot doors.

39. Every person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to any building shall cause—

- (a.) An arch of brick or stone to be built over the opening of every chimney constructed in the course of such work to support the breast thereof, and shall support all such arches, except semi-circle ones upon wrought iron bars of sufficient strength, to be built eight and a half inches into the chimney jambs.
- (b.) All flues in such building, constructed in the course of such work, which may be intended for use in connection with any oven, furnace cockle, steam boiler, or close fire, constructed for any purpose of trade or business, or which may be intended for use in connection with any range or cooking apparatus of such building, when occupied as a hotel or eating house, to be surrounded with brickwork at least eight and a half inches thick from the floor on which such oven, furnace, cockle, steam boiler, or close fire may be constructed or placed to a point eighteen inches clear of the outside of the roof.
- (c.) The inside of every flue, constructed in the course of such work, to be pargeted, or lined with fire-resisting glazed piping or stoneware.
- (d.) The position and course of every flue which is being constructed in a party wall, if the construction of the building or of the flues and fireplaces on both sides of such party wall be not carried on contemporaneously, to be distinguished in some durable manner by outline marks on the outside of the work as it is carried up.
- (e.) The jambs of every fireplace opening constructed in the course of such work to be at least eight and a half inches thick.
- (f.) The breast of every chimney and the brickwork surrounding every smoke flue constructed in the course of such work, except where otherwise provided in this By-law, to be at least four and a half inches thick.
- (g.) The back of every fireplace opening constructed in the course of such work in a party wall to be at least eight and a half inches thick from the hearth to height of twelve inches above the mantle.
- (h.) The upper side of every flue constructed in a cross wall, and carried from the fireplace to an external wall, to be at least eight and a half inches thick.
- (i.) Every chimney shaft or smoke flue constructed in the course of such work, not otherwise provided for in this By-law, to be carried up in brickwork at least four inches thick throughout, to a height of not less than three feet above the roof, flat, or gutter adjoining thereto, measured at the highest point in the line of junction with such roof, flat, or gutter.
- (j.) The highest six courses of every chimney stack or shaft, constructed in the course of such work, to be built in cement mortar.
- (k.) An outer hearth to be constructed before every fireplace opening, which hearth shall consist of a slab of stone or other incombustible material at least fourteen inches wide, and six inches longer on each side than the width of such opening. Except on the lowest floor, such slab shall be laid on iron bearers or brick trimmer arches, supported by the floor joists, but on the lower floor may be bedded upon a solid built-up foundation.

- (4.) The inner hearth of every chimney erected in the course of such work to be constructed wholly of brick, stone, or other incombustible material, and such hearth, except on the lowest floor, or unless inset in the brickwork of a chimney breast, to be supported by corbelling of brick or stone, or by slate or stone slabs, or by iron girders or other incombustible material, provided that on the lowest floor such hearth shall be bedded on a solid built foundation. In no case shall the least thickness of such inner hearth be less than six inches.
40. No person who shall hereafter erect, alter, or add to any building shall cause or allow:—
- (a.) The brickwork or stonework of any chimney shaft erected in the course of such work, other than a chimney shaft of the furnace of any steam engine, brewery, distillery, or manufactory, to be built higher above the roof, flat, or gutter adjoining thereto than a height equal to six times the least width of such chimney shaft, taken at the level of the highest point in the line of junction, unless such chimney shaft shall be built with or bonded to another chimney shaft not in the same line with the first mentioned chimney shaft, or shall be otherwise rendered secure.
- (b.) Any flue to be built in or against any party wall, unless it be surrounded with new brickwork at least four inches thick properly bonded into the old work.
41. No person shall cause or allow:—
- (a.) Any chimney shaft, jamb, breast, or flue to be cut into, except for the purpose of repair, or for some one or more of the following purposes:—
- (1.) For letting in or removing or altering flues, pipes, or funnels for the conveyance of hot air, smoke, or steam, or for letting in, removing, or altering smoke jacks;
 - (2.) For forming openings for soot doors, in which case such openings shall be fitted with a close iron door and frame;
 - (3.) For making openings for the insertion of ventilating valves: provided that such openings shall be not made nearer than twelve inches to any timber or combustible substance.
- (b.) Any timber or woodwork to be placed:—
- (1.) In any wall or chimney breast nearer than four and a-half inches to the inside of any flue or chimney opening;
 - (2.) Under any chimney opening within six inches from the upper surface of the hearth thereof.
42. No person shall drive any wooden plug into any wall nearer than four and a-half inches to the inside of any flue or chimney opening, nor shall any iron holdfasts or other iron fastenings be placed nearer than two inches thereto.
43. Every person who shall hereafter construct a chimney shaft which may be intended for use in connection with the furnace of a steam engine, brewery, distillery, or manufactory, shall construct such shaft in conformity with the following rules:—
- (a.) The foundation of such shaft shall be made of concrete or other sufficient foundation.
- (b.) The footings of such shaft shall spread all round the base thereof by regular offsets to a projection equal to the thickness of the enclosing brickwork at the base of such shaft, and the space enclosed for such footings shall be filled in solid as the work progresses.
- (c.) The width of the base of such shaft, if square, shall be at least one-tenth of the proposed height thereof, or if such shaft is round, octagonal, or other many and equal-sided and angled, then at least one-twelfth of the height thereof.
- (d.) Every such shaft shall be carried up throughout in brickwork and mortar of the best quality, and, if detached, shall be tapered gradually from the base to the top, and all faces or sides of such shafts, at the rate of at least two and a-half inches for every ten feet of height.
- (e.) The brickwork at the top of such shaft, and for twenty feet below the top, shall be at least eight and a-half inches thick, and such thickness shall be increased at least four inches for every additional twenty feet, measured downwards.
- (f.) Every cap, cornice, pedestal, string-course, or other variation from plain brickwork in connection with such shaft shall be as additional to the thickness of brickwork required under this By-law, and every such cap shall be constructed and secured to the satisfaction of the Surveyor.
- (g.) All fire-brick lining built inside the lower portion of such shaft shall be additional to and independent of the thickness of the brickwork thereof prescribed by this By-law, and shall not be bonded therewith.
- Staircases.*
44. Every person who shall hereafter construct or adapt any building for occupation in separate tenements by more than two families, shall cause the principal staircase of such building, which may be used by several families in common, to be ventilated upon every storey above the ground storey by means of windows or skylights opening directly into the external air, or to be otherwise adequately ventilated.

45. Every person concerned in the erection of any dwelling house not subject to the provisions of the last preceding clause, shall cause the principal staircase in such dwelling house to be ventilated by means of a window or skylight opening directly into the external air.

46. Every person concerned in the erection of a building of more than 150,000 cubic feet, which is constructed or adapted to be used as a dwelling-house for separate families, shall cause the floors of the lobbies, corridors, passages, landings, and also the stairs, to be of fire-resisting materials, and, when over three stories, exclusive of basement, to be carried by supports of fire-resisting materials.

Habitable Rooms.

47. Every person concerned in the erection of any building containing a habitable room or rooms shall cause:—

- (a.) Every such room to have a capacity of not less than eight hundred cubic feet.
- (b.) Every such room wholly or partly in the roof or such building to be at least nine feet in height from the floor to the ceiling throughout not less than one-half the floor area of such room.
- (c.) Every such room not being wholly or partly in the roof, to be in every part to be at least nine feet in height from the floor to the ceiling.
- (d.) Every such room to have one or more windows opening directly into the external air or into a conservatory with a total superficies clear of the sash frames and free from any obstruction to the light, equal to at least one-twelfth the floor area of such room, and so constructed that a portion equal to at least one-twenty-fourth of such floor area can be opened, and that the opening in each case shall extend to at least seven feet above the floor level: provided that such room may be lighted by a lantern light, which shall be hung to open with rods or lines and levers, of which a portion equal to at least one-twenty-fourth of the floor area can be opened.
- (e.) Every such room constructed over a stable to be separated from the stable by a floor, which shall have in every part not occupied by a joist or girder, a layer of concrete or clay pugging of good quality, or of other solid construction, three inches in thickness, finished smooth upon the upper surface and properly supported, and the underside of such floor to be ceiled with lath and plaster of good quality, or of other solid construction; and every staircase, gallery, or structure by which such rooms shall be approached to be separated from the stable which it adjoins by a brick wall not less than eight and a-half inches in thickness.
- (f.) Every such room, whether used for the purpose of habitation or for the assemblage of people for any purpose whatever, to be well and properly ventilated by the insertion of air bricks below the floor and by openings in the sleeper walls; also by inlet ventilators in the walls and by outlet ventilators in the ceilings, or at the top of the walls of such room, with sufficient flues and pipes thereto, according to the position and size of such room.
- (g.) Every basement room having a wooden floor other than a floor constructed of solid wood bedded on concrete, to have a sufficient space between the ground and the underside of the floor to admit of ventilation by means of air flues formed in the wall connected with air-bricks or otherwise above ground level.

No person shall allow or cause to be constructed in any dwelling, any habitable room, unless every window thereof opening directly into the external air at the side of such dwelling is provided with a clear air space, in the case of a single storied dwelling of at least two feet and six inches, and in any other case of at least three feet wide, measured square on to the exterior face of the wall in which such window is situate, such air space being in the same ownership as the dwelling.

Light Courts.

48. No person shall cause or allow:—

- (a.) A habitable room not having a window directly opening into the external air, otherwise than into a court enclosed on every side, to be constructed in any building, unless the width of such court, measured from such window to the opposite wall, shall be equal to half the height measured from the sill of such window to the eaves or top of the parapet of the opposite wall: provided that a court, of which the greater dimension does not exceed twice the lesser dimension, shall be held to comply with this clause if a court of the same area, but square in shape, would comply therewith.
- (b.) No person shall cause or allow to be constructed in any building, other than a dwelling house, any habitable room, unless every window of such room opening directly into an external light court at the side of such building is provided with a clear air space of at least four feet, measured square on to the external face of the wall in which such window is situate, such air space being in the same ownership as the said building.
- (c.) Any light court, wholly or in part open on the top, but enclosed on every side and constructed and used for admitting light and air to a domestic building, to be constructed unless adequate provision shall have been made for the ventilation of such court by means of a communication capable of admitting fresh air to the lower end of such court.

- (d.) Any light court enclosed on every side, to be constructed in any building, unless means of access is given to such court by a doorway leading out from the ground storey of such building.
- (e.) Any light court, enclosed on every side, to be constructed, unless adequate provision for the proper drainage of such court shall first have been made.

Back Buildings.

49. No person shall cause or allow any habitable room to be constructed in any back building when the only window or windows of such room opening into the external air is or are situate in the wall which faces the front building, unless every window of such room be placed not nearer to the opposite wall of the front building than a distance of twelve feet.

Conversion of Buildings.

50. No person shall convert into or use as a dwelling house, any building or any part thereof not originally built as and for a dwelling house within the limits of the Municipality, whether built before or after the making of this By-law, without the previous consent of the Council.

Signboards, signs, etc.

51. No person shall erect, put up, or place any signboard, sign, awning, blind, overhanging lamp, or other thing over or near any footway or roadway within the Municipality without having first obtained the written consent of the Council therefor. Permission to erect a signboard shall only be given where there is a verandah to which to affix such signboard; and every person who shall have obtained permission to erect a signboard shall cause the same to be securely fastened to such verandah at a height in the clear of not less than eight feet from the footpath. No signboard shall be affixed to any covering of the verandah roof or to any roof guttering, nor shall it project beyond the footway into the roadway.

Verandahs and Balconies.

52. No person shall erect any verandah or balcony over any public footway within the limits of the Municipality of North Perth, unless he shall have obtained a license in accordance with Schedule 4 or 5, and except in accordance with plans approved by the Council, nor shall he cause or allow any portion of any verandah or balcony, now or hereafter to be erected, to be enclosed.

Miscellaneous.

53. The owner of any building or premises shall fill up, secure, or remove any cellar-ways or openings which may be in or under any footway, and are used in connection with or an appurtenant to such building or premises, whenever ordered by the Council so to do.

Temporary Buildings.

54. The Council may grant a license for the erection of any building under Section 3 of "The Building Act Amendment Act, 1887," and in accordance with Schedule VIII. to these By-laws.

55. The owner of any building or premises shall, when ordered by the Council so to do, at his own expense remove any verandah, balcony, or other obstruction used in connection with or appurtenant to such building or premises which shall obstruct the footway or street, or are dangerous, whether such verandah, balcony, or other obstruction shall have been erected before or after the commencement of "The Municipal Institutions Act, 1900."

56. The owner of any lamp post, telegraph, telephone, electric lighting, or tramway poles shall, when ordered by the Council so to do, at his own expense, paint the same during such hours and in such manner as the Surveyor shall direct, and shall, at such like expense and when so ordered, remove any of such posts or poles as shall be bent, dangerous, unsightly, or not in use.

57. No person shall erect any dangerous fence, or shall use barbed wire in the construction of any fence abutting on any public place.

58. The owner or occupier of any building occupied or used as a workshop, workroom, or office, which shall be partially or wholly constructed of iron, zinc, or tin, shall, once in every three years, or oftener, when so ordered by the Council, cause such iron, zinc, or tin to be coated with refrigerating paint.

59. No person shall cause or allow any iron spike or other projection, broken glass, or barbed wire to be placed or fixed on any premises abutting upon a street or way.

60. No person shall construct any building without providing convenient means of access to roof by manholes or otherwise.

61. Timber-framed gables to any bay window may be constructed in buildings of the domestic class, and in buildings of other classes, if approved and consented to by the Council and indorsed on the drawings by the Building Surveyor.

62. All skylights in verandahs and buildings, and the sloping sides of all lantern lights, shall be protected by galvanised iron wire guards securely fixed to the inside thereof.

Penalties.

63. These By-laws shall apply to every part of the Municipality of North Perth, and any person who contravenes or does not comply with any one of the provisions of these By-laws, shall be deemed guilty of an offence against these By-laws, and for every such offence shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20.

REGISTERED LOTS OPEN FOR SALE.

Department of Lands and Surveys,
Perth, 6th June, 1905.

1905
IT is hereby notified, for general information, that all lots within the Goldfields Townsites in the State, registered under Section 30 of "The Goldfields Act, 1895," or Section 37 of "The Mining Act, 1904," are now open for sale at a price to be determined by the Minister, subject to the holders having complied with the necessary conditions under which the lots were granted.

The holders of such lots must make application to purchase through the Warden, Government Land Agent, or Mining Registrar, within three months from the time of receiving notice (which will be issued by the Warden at an early date) that the lots are open for sale.

Crown Grants will only extend to a depth of 40ft. below the natural surface of the ground.

R. CECIL CLIFTON,
Under Secretary for Lands.

SETTING APART LOTS AS A VILLAGE SITE
(KELLERBERRIN).

Department of Lands and Surveys,
Perth, 28th June, 1905.

1905
HIS Excellency the Governor in Executive Council has been pleased to set apart Kellerberrin Lots 26, 27, 28, and 32 as a Village Site, under the provisions of Part VIII., Section 84, of "The Land Act, 1898."

R. CECIL CLIFTON,
Under Secretary for Lands.

LOTS OPEN FOR SELECTION AS RESIDENTIAL LEASES.

Department of Lands and Surveys,
Perth, 31st May, 1905.

⁴⁶²³ and ⁸¹⁶
1905
IT is hereby notified, for general information, that all unsold lots, not reserved, leased, registered under "The Mining Act, 1904," or otherwise legally held, and not exceeding half-an-acre, within the townsites situate on the Goldfields of the State outside the South-West Division, are now open for selection as "Residential Leases," subject to the Regulations published in the Government Gazette of the 26th May, 1905, and may be applied for at the offices of the various Wardens and Government Land Agents.

R. CECIL CLIFTON,
Under Secretary for Lands.

TRANSFERS OF HOMESTEAD FARMS.

Department of Lands and Surveys,
Perth, 4th July, 1904.

IT is hereby notified, for general information, that no transfer of a Homestead Farm will be approved in future, except under special circumstances, unless improvements to the value of £50, including the external fencing, have been effected on the land, or the holder thereof has resided upon same for a period of 12 months.

2. A Homestead Farm is not transferable except to a person eligible to hold the land as a Homestead Farm, and any application for the conversion of such into a Conditional Purchase, for the purpose of a transfer, will render the land liable to forfeiture.

R. CECIL CLIFTON,
Under Secretary for Lands.

* Averages for three years only.

On the whole this was a fine weather month. Showery weather prevailed in West and South-West districts till the 9th, with heavy coastal squalls and rough seas; but from the 9th till the 28th only one of the usual winter disturbances passed along. During this period anti-cyclonic conditions prevailed, viz., high barometers, fine bright weather, and cold frosty nights, especially inland. One disturbance, not of the usual type, must be recorded. On the 24th the weather became cloudy to overcast throughout the State, and rain fell on the North-West coast between Condon and Cossack. The unsettled weather passed thence across the desert country in a South-East or South-South-East direction towards South Australia, being felt only at our most Eastern settlements, but in South Australia a heavy downpour was recorded, extending from the centre of the continent to the South coast. This, though having very slight effect in Western Australia, deserves mention, as we are only just commencing to appreciate the importance of this class of disturbance in Australian meteorology.

On the 28th an ordinary winter storm visited the South-West district, and the weather remained showery and squally till the end of the month.

On the whole, pressure was above the average for previous years; only slightly in the tropics, but considerably so in Southern portions. Temperature was about normal in the daytime, but lower than usual at night, and frosts were fairly frequent in the middle and latter portions of the month, especially inland. The lowest temperature on the surface of the ground was 22°0, at Southern Cross and Walebing, on the 19th.

Rain was below the average throughout, but especially near the North-West Cape, where only a few light showers fell. In the extreme South-West it was fairly heavy, but in no district did it quite reach normal.

The following table shows the mean and absolute lowest temperatures recorded by a thermometer placed upon the surface of the ground:—

THE TRADE UNIONS ACT, 1902

(1 & 2 Edwd. VII., No. 19.)

F.S. $\frac{100}{1003}$

NOTICE BEFORE CANCELLING OF CERTIFICATE OF REGISTRY.

Name of Trade Union:—Kanowna Mining-timber and Firewood Supply Union of Workers, Register No. 55.

NOTICE is hereby given to the above-mentioned Trade Union that it is the intention of the Registrar of Friendly Societies to proceed, on the 19th day of July, 1905, to cancel (or to withdraw) the registry of the Trade Union unless cause be shown to the contrary in the meantime. The ground of such proposed cancelling is that the Trade Union has, after notice from me, violated the provisions of the above-mentioned Act by neglecting to furnish me with the return required thereunder.

Registrar of Friendly Societies.

Dated this 7th day of June, 1905.
