THE NAVIGATION ACT, 1904.

C.S.O. $\frac{2467}{1907}$ Harbour and Light Department, Fremantle, 24th May, 1907.

THE following Report and Finding of the Chief Harbour Master, relative to the total loss of the ketch "Edith" by stranding on the Condon Creek Reef on the 18th April, 1907, has been approved by the Hon. the Colonial Secretary.

G. J. SINCLAIR,
Secretary.

The Under Secretary.

I beg to state, for the information of the Hon. the Minister, that yesterday I completed a preliminary inquiry into the circumstances attending the total loss of the ketch "Edith" by stranding on the reef outside Condon Creek on the 18th April, 1907, while on a coasting voyage from Fremantle to Banningarra Creek via Condon and other ports.

The "Edith" was a wood sailing vessel, ketch rigged, Registered tons 67, Official No. 101495, and owned by Messrs. J. Denny and others.

After taking the evidence of the Master, Thorvald Brandt Rantzau, who holds a Coasting Master's Certificate, No. 04, issued at Fremantle 30th July, 1903, William Larsen, leading hand, acting as mate, and Knud Knutson, A.B., I have to report that the ketch "Edith" left Port Hedland on the 10th April for Condon, properly manned and seaworthy, and after a very protracted trip, owing to baffling winds and tides, arrived off Condon at mid-day on the 17th, and when endeavouring to make the creek (Condon Creek), and when just to the Eastward of Condon Creek reef about midnight, the tide then being almost full, the vessel missed stays owing to the wind being light and the influence of the tide. Seeing this an attempt was made to wear the vessel, but as she was fast being carried bodily towards the reef the anchor was dropped, but the holding ground being bad the vessel tailed on to the reef. Every endeavour was then made to get the vessel off by means of kedges and removing cargo, but she remained fast on the reef from her mizzen aft, and when the tide receded, and her bow took the ground, the vessel broke up.

After careful consideration of the evidence I find—

(a.) That the ketch "Edith," when beating into Condon Creek on the night of the 17th April mis-stayed when to the Eastward of the Condon Creek reef, and was in consequence carried by the tide on to same, where she remained till the tide receded, when the vessel broke up.

(b.) That the vessel was properly navigated (a good look-out being kept and the lead going) and that every endeavour was made to prevent the vessel going on to the reef after she mis-stayed by means of sails and ground tackle, and to get her off after she took the reef by kedges and removing cargo.

(c.) That no blame can be attached to the Master or any person concerned, and that further proceedings on the part of the Department are unnecessary.

C. J. IRVINE,
Chief Harbour Master.
