37. If any storey exceeds in height eighteen times the thickness as prescribed for walls of such storey, the thickness of each external and party wall throughout such storey shall be increased to one-eighteenth part of the height of the storey, and the thickness of each external and party wall below such storey shall be increased to that thickness, but any such additional thickness may be confined to piers properly distributed of which the collective widths amount to one-fourth part of the length of the wall. No increase in thickness of brick walls shall be less than four and one-half inches.

38. The height of any storey may be twenty times the thickness of walls prescribed for such storey if built with cement mortar.

39. Thickness of walls warehouse class.—The external and party walls of buildings of the warehouse class shall be made of not less thickness than that specified in the following table B.

40. Thickness of walls under certain conditions.—Walls under 75ft. in length may be constructed nine inches thick, provided they are strengthened with four and a-half inch piers equally spaced of which the collective widths amount to one-fifth of the length of the wall. The height shall not exceed twelve feet when built of lime mortar, or thirteen feet six inches when built of cement mortar.

41. The thickness of walls under twenty feet in length may be two-thirds the thickness required for external or party walls as stated in tables A and B, but in no case less than nine inches.

42. If in any storey of the warehouse class the thickness of the wall as determined by the provisions of this part of this by-law is less than one-sixteenth part of the height of such storey, the thickness of the wall shall be increased to one-sixteenth part of the height of the storey, and the thickness of each external and party wall below that storey shall be increased to that thickness, but any additional thickness may be confined to piers properly distributed of which the collective widths amount to one-fifth part of the length of the wall. No increase in the thickness of brick walls shall be less than four and one-half inches. The height of any storey built in cement mortar may be eighteen times the thickness prescribed for such storey.

Provided that such return walls are external, party, or cross-walls of the thickness required by this part of this by-law and bonded into the wall so deemed to be divided.

44. Cross-walls.—The thickness of a cross-wall shall not be less than two-thirds of the thickness hereinbefore required for an external or party wall of the same dimensions and belonging to the same class of building, but never less than nine inches, and no wall subdividing shall be deemed to be a cross-wall unless it is carried up to the plate level of the topmost storey, and unless in each storey the aggregate extent of the vertical faces or elevations of all recesses and that of all the openings therein taken together does not exceed one-half of the whole extent of the vertical face or elevation of the wall. If a cross-wall is carried on a girder across the ground storey and is supported by piers to the satisfaction of the surveyor, it shall be deemed to be a cross-wall in accordance with this regulation but in one storey buildings of the domestic class, four and one-half inch cross-walls will be permitted provided the unsupported length of any wall does not exceed twenty-five feet.

45. Cross-wall becomes External wall.—Whenever a cross-wall becomes in any part an external wall, the external part of such cross-wall shall be of the thickness required for an external wall of the same height and length and belonging to the same class of building, but no portion of such cross-wall shall be of less thickness than is required for the external portion thereof.

48. Parapet to walls on boundary.—Where the external wall of any building is erected on the boundary of the land on which the same stands, or where the overhanging eaves or gutters of any building would be within two feet of such boundary then the external wall of such building shall be carried up to form a parapet fifteen inches at least in height above the roof, or above the highest part of any flat or gutter as the case may be.

Parapet, Warehouse class.—In buildings of the warehouse class, the thickness of such parapet shall be equal to the thickness of such wall in the topmost storey, and in any other buildings of a thickness of nine inches at least.

49. Party walls.—Every party wall shall be carried up for a height of fifteen inches above the roof, measured at right angles to the slope thereof, or fifteen inches above the highest part of any flat or gutter as the case may be, and of a thickness (in buildings of the warehouse class) equal to the thickness of such wall in the topmost storey, and in any other building of a thickness of eight and one-half inches at least: Provided however that in the case of domestic buildings, where not more than two buildings are erected under one roof, it shall be sufficient if the party wall is carried up at least eight and one-half inches in thickness to the underside of the roof covering, and such roof covering of iron, slate, or other material must be bedded in good mortar to the satisfaction of the surveyor, and the top of such party wall shall not be hidden from view until it has been approved by the surveyor.
