Schedule.

Prescribed Method for Determining Residual Free Chlorine.

Materials required:

- Comparator with colour disc range—
 0.1 to 1.0 ppm. chlorine.
 0.15 to 2.0 ppm. chlorine.

Reagents required:

- Standard sodium arsenite solution.
 Standard acid orthotolidine solution.

Sodium arsenite reagent can be prepared by dissolving 5 gms. of sodium arsenite (sodium meta arsenite) in distilled water and dilute to one litre.

Procedure:

1. Take sample of water from pool in plastic beaker and keep out of direct sunlight. Testing should proceed immediately.
2. Fill one cell with sample of water, up to 10 ml. mark, and place in left side of comparator.
3. To the other cell add 0.1 ml. orthotolidine from graduated dropper. Fill to 10 ml. mark with sample, shake and immediately add 0.1 ml. of sodium arsenite from graduated dropper and shake. Place in right hand side of comparator, record (reading 1) which is free residual chlorine.
4. Remove cell from right hand compartment.
 Rinse thoroughly.
 Add 0.1 ml. of orthotolidine from graduated dropper. Fill to 10 ml. mark with sample of water. Replace in right hand compartment. Take Reading 11 at the end of five minutes. This is the total chlorine residual. Reading 11 minus Reading 1 will give the combined chlorine (or chloramine) residual.
 Sometimes impurities in the water may give a false colour reading; this can be checked by:
5. Fill one cell with sample and place in left hand side of comparator. To the other cell add 0.1 ml. of sodium arsenite solution from graduated dropper. Fill to 10 ml. mark with sample. Then add 0.1 ml. orthotolidine (2 drops). Place in right hand side compartment.

At the end of five minutes record reading.

This will indicate the amount of interfering colour (if any) produced by natural impurities in the water, such as manganese, iron or nitrites, and should be deducted from Reading 11.
