SALARIES AND ALLOWANCES TRIBUNAL

SA401

SALARIES AND ALLOWANCES TRIBUNAL

VARIATION OF A DETERMINATION DATED 28 JUNE 1990 PURSUANT TO SECTION 6 OF THE SALARIES AND ALLOWANCES ACT

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

The Acts Amendment (Parliamentary Secretaries) Act, assented to on 8 November 1990, creates a new category of positions designated Parliamentary Secretaries and requires the Tribunal to determine allowances payable to the office holders.

The amending legislation, which affects both the Constitution Acts Amendment Act 1899 and the Salaries and Allowances Act 1975, enables the appointment by the Governor of officers to be known as Parliamentary Secretaries. The functions of these officers are specified in the instrument of appointment.

In the case of appointments approved by the Governor on 20 November 1990, the functions are specified as follows:

- (a) to have carriage of Government Bills;
- (b) to assist with the parliamentary business of the relevant Minister or as required by the Leader of the Government in the Legislative Council;
- (c) to assist in the performance of official duties as required by the relevant Minister or the Premier; and
- (d) to do things that are incidental to these functions.

Section 44A (4) of the Constitution Acts Amendment Act 1899 states:

"If the Premier so approves, a Parliamentary Secretary appointed under this section shall be paid an allowance under subsection (5) but otherwise shall not receive any remuneration in respect of that office".

Subsection (5) of the same Section states:

"The allowance referred to in subsection (4)—

- (a) is an allowance for and in respect of expenses necessarily or reasonably incurred in connection with the office of Parliamentary Secretary; and
- (b) shall be determined under section 6 of the Salaries and Allowances Act 1975."

The amendments to the Salaries and Allowances Act requires that the Tribunal determine the remuneration to be paid to Parliamentary Secretaries. The definition of remuneration in the Act whilst including the meaning of salary and any allowance which is payable annually or at a rate per annum, also, in the case of Members of Parliament, includes other allowances and fees and emoluments.

In giving consideration to its responsibilities as the result of the amendment, the Tribunal has had regard for the functions to be performed and the statements made in the Parliament in respect of the costs of providing these additional positions. Whilst the expenses attributable to the Parliamentary Secretaries are to be met from within the present Budget allocations provided to operate the relevant Minister's offices, there will be occasions when unvouched expenditure will be incurred, in much the same manner as applying to other "office holders" and Ministers within the Parliament. To cater for this, the Tribunal has determined an expense of office allowance commensurate with that applying to the Parliamentary Secretary of the Cabinet.

A further review of the positions will be carried out at a time when the positions have become established and a practical examination of the functions can be made.

The attached determination shall have effect from 20 November, 1990.

Dated at Perth this 23rd day of November, 1990.
