SALARIES AND ALLOWANCES TRIBUNAL

SA401SALARIES AND ALLOWANCES ACT 1975*DETERMINATION OF THE SALARIES AND ALLOWANCES TRIBUNAL*1 JULY 1999

The Salaries and Allowances Act 1975 requires this Tribunal to make a determination and a report in respect of the matters referred to in section 6 (1) and section 7 (1) at intervals of not more than one year. The Tribunal issued a determination and report in December 1998. Following this action, the Tribunal commenced a major review of parliamentary remuneration having regard for the Parliamentary and Judicial Superannuation Committee's recommendations in respect to parliamentary superannuation. This review is still being undertaken.

As the result of these inquiries and from information presented to the Tribunal, it is considered that an interim determination should be made having regard to the changing circumstances occurring in the Public Sector.

Special Division and Prescribed Office Holders

Determinations issued by the Tribunal in recent times have not recognised the effects that Workplace and Enterprise Agreements have had on the remuneration of staff within government agencies and departments.

The Tribunal has exercised restraint in movements for those offices within its jurisdiction for a period of time, particularly when the increases achieved by Workplace Agreements required a trade off of conditions. Indeed, the Tribunal has provided a total of 4 per cent for the Special Division over the last two years and 2 per cent for Members of Parliament. During this time, according to advice received, the average annual wage increase (AAWI) per employee per workplace agreement was 7.25 per cent for 1996/97 and 3.29 per cent for 1997/98.

The movement in salaries by Workplace Agreements has impacted upon those salary levels determined by this Tribunal. The current basic salary for a Group 1 Minimum Chief Executive Officer is $94,334 per annum. The Tribunal is aware of a number of Senior Executive Service (SES) Level 9 positions at second and third level management in departments who are in receipt of salaries in excess of the Tribunal determined Group 1 Minimum rate.

The Tribunal recognises that measures accepted by Government enabling salary increases for employees must apply equally to the Chief Executive Officers within the respective organisations. As such, it would be wrong to deny those persons within our jurisdiction recognition for improved productivity.

Further information provided by the Public Sector Standards Commissioner confirms that, in a number of instances, the level of remuneration has dissuaded suitable persons from applying for Chief Executive positions in Western Australia. Confirmation of recruitment and retention difficulties has also been confirmed by the Director General, Ministry of the Premier and Cabinet.

Advice from private remuneration consultants indicates that the gap between the median market levels and the Tribunal salaries has widened to such a degree that an adjustment should be made.

The matter will be investigated further, and to this end, advice will be sought from the person formally appointed under Section 10 (4) (b) of the Act, to assist the Tribunal in an inquiry in so far as it relates to the remuneration to be paid or provided to the officers and persons referred to in section 6 (1) (d) and (e).

In the interim, with effect from 1 July 1999, this determination provides an increase of 5 per cent for officers holding offices contained in Part 1 of the Second Schedule and those contained in the Third Schedule of the determination dated 5 June 1998.

Members of Parliament

As indicated above, the Tribunal is still in the process of undertaking its review of the remuneration of Members of Parliament. To date in excess of thirty Members have been interviewed as part of a work value/work volume exercise.

Despite the fact that the review has not been completed, there is sufficient evidence before the Tribunal to substantiate an interim movement in basic salary.

Full details of the Tribunal's findings will be published in the report of the Tribunal upon completion of the review, however, at this time, the Tribunal is satisfied that it would not be in the best interest to delay an increase pending the completion of the review.

The Tribunal has previously detailed the unique role of members of Parliament and recognises their submission that they are not able to win salary increases in the same way as the rest of the workforce. It does not propose to reiterate these comments at this time.

This determination provides a 4 per cent increase in the basic salary of Members of the Western Australian Parliament with effect from 1 July 1999.
