PERTH: Friday, February 6,

[1846.]

Colonial Secretary's Office, Perth,
January 14, 1846.

His Excellency the Governor is pleased to direct it to be notified for the information of the public, that the horses hereinafter described, will be put up by the Resident of Toodyay to sale by Public Auction, at the farm of Charles R. Hinds, Esq., near Northam, on Saturday, the 14th Feb. next, at 2 o'clock in the day:-

- A bay mare, about 5 years old, no particular marks.
- A dark brown mare, off hind foot white, with a few white hairs in forehead, a foal by her side.
- A bay yearling colt.
- A black yearling colt.

The two mares joined the herd of Mr. Hinds upwards of two years ago, and notice of the same was given in the Inquirer newspaper, of the 11th of Dec., 1844; No claimants have appeared.
The colts are the produce of the above mares.

Colonial Secretary's Office, Perth,
January 17, 1846.

His Excellency the Governor, is pleased to direct the publication of the copy of a treaty of commerce and navigation which has been recently concluded between Great Britain and the Kingdom of the two Sicilies.

By His Excellency's command,

PETER BROWN,

Colonial Secretary.

Downing-street, Aug. 12, 1845.

Sir, - I transmit, for your information and guidance, the copy of a treaty of commerce and navigation recently concluded between Great Britain and the Kingdom of the two Sicilies, and I have to desire, that you will take any steps which may be necessary for carrying the stipulations of that treaty into effect, so far as the colony under your Government is concerned.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your most obedient humble servant,

STANLEY.

Governor Hutt, &c. &c.
Western Australia.

Treaty of commerce and navigation between Her Majesty and the King of the Kingdom of the two Sicilies.

Signed at Naples, April 29, 1845.

(Ratifications exchanged at Naples, June 25, 1845.)

Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and His Majesty the King of the Kingdom of the two Sicilies, being equally desirous of improving, extending, and regulating the commercial relations between their respective states, and of affording every facility and encouragement to the commercial intercourse between their respective subjects; and being persuaded that nothing will more contribute to the attainment of this desirable object, than a reciprocal abrogation of all discriminating duties of navigation and commerce, and of all exclusive privileges of trade hitherto enjoyed by the subjects of either party in the dominions of the other, have appointed Plenipotentiaries to conclude a Treaty for this purpose; that is to say:-

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, The Honourable William Temple, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of Her said Majesty at the said Court of Naples, and Sir Woodbine Parish, Knight Commander of the Royal Guelphic Order.

And His Majesty the King of the Kingdom of the two Sicilies, Don Giustino Fortunato, Knight Grand Cross of the Royal and Military Constantinian Order of St. George, and that of Francis the First, Minister Secretary of State of His said Majesty; and Don Michael Gravina Requesens, Prince of Comitini, Knight Grand Cross of the Royal Order of Francis the First, Gentleman of the Chamber in waiting and Minister Secretary of State of His said Majesty; and Don Antonio Spinelli, of Scalca, Commander of the Royal Order of Francis the First, Gentleman of the Chamber of his said Majesty, Member of the General Consulta, and Superintendent General of the Archives of the Kingdom:-

Who after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found to be in due and proper form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:-

Article I.

Her Britannic Majesty confirms the abolition agreed upon by the first article of the convention of commerce and navigation, between Great Britain and the Kingdom of the two Sicilies, signed at London, on the 26th of Sept. 1816, of all the privileges and exemptions, which her subjects, their commerce and merchant ships, did enjoy within the dominions, states, and ports of His Sicilian Majesty, in virtue of the treaty of peace and commerce between Great Britain and Spain, concluded at Madrid, on the 13-23rd of May, 1667; of the treaties of commerce between the same powers signed at Utrecht, the 28th Nov. - 9th Dec. 1713, and at Madrid, the 3-14th Dec. 1715, and of the convention between Great Britain and the Kingdom of Sicily concluded at Utrecht, the 25th Feb. 1712-8th Mar, 1713, and it is agreed in consequence, between their said Britannic and Sicilian Majesties, their heirs and successors, that the said privileges and exemptions, whether of persons, flags, or shipping, are and shall continue for ever abolished, even when the present treaty shall cease to be in force.

Article II.

His Sicilian Majesty, on his part, confirms in like manner, the engagement contained in the 2nd article of the said convention of the 26th Sept. 1816, not to grant for the future, to the subjects of any other power whatever, the privileges and exemptions abolished by that convention, and to which the preceding article refers.

Article III.

With respect to the personal privileges to be enjoyed by the subjects of Her Britannic Majesty in the Kingdom of the two Sicilies, His Sicilian Majesty engages that they shall have a free and undoubted right to travel and to reside in the territories and dominions of his said Majesty, subject to the same precautions of police which are practised towards the subjects or citizens of the most favored nations.

They shall be entitled to occupy dwellings and warehouses, and to dispose of all their personal property, of every kind and description, by sale, gift exchange, will, or in any other way whatever, without the smallest hindrance or obstacle. They shall not be obliged to pay, under any pretence whatever, any taxes or impositions other or greater than those which are paid by the subjects or citizens of the most favored nations in the dominions of his said Sicilian Majesty. They shall be exempted from all military service whatever, by land or by sea; from forced loans and from every extraordinary contribution not general or by law established; their dwellings, warehouses and all premises appertaining thereto, destined for purposes of residence or commerce, shall be respected. No arbitrary search of or visit to the houses of British subjects, and no arbitrary examination or inspection whatever of the books, papers, or accounts of their trade, shall be made; but such measures shall be executed only in conformity with the legal sentence of a competent tribunal. And generally, his Sicilian Majesty engages, that the subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, residing in his states or dominions, shall enjoy their property and personal security, in as full and ample manner as his own subjects and as the subjects or citizens of the most favored nations.

Her Britannic Majesty on her part, engages to insure the enjoyment of the like privileges, to the subjects of His Sicilian Majesty, within her dominions.

Article IV.

The subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, within the dominions of His Sicilian Majesty, shall be free to manage their own affairs themselves, or to commit those affairs to the management of any persons whom they may appoint as their broker, factor, or agent; nor shall such British subjects be restrained in their choice if they be called upon to pay any salary or remuneration to any person whom they shall not chuse to employ. Absolute freedom shall be given in all cases to the buyer and seller to bargain together, and to fix the price of any goods or merchandise imported into or to be exported from the dominions of His Sicilian Majesty, save and except generally such cases wherein the laws and usages of the country may require the intervention of any special agents in the dominions of his Sicilian Majesty.

The same privileges shall be enjoyed in the dominions of Her Britannic Majesty, by the subjects of His Sicilian Majesty, and upon the same conditions.

Article V.

The subjects of Her Britannic Majesty shall not be liable within the dominions of His Sicilian Majesty, to a more rigorous system of examination and research by the officers of customs than the subjects of his Sicilian Majesty. And in like manner, the subjects of his Sicilian Majesty, shall not be liable, within the dominions of her Britannic Majesty, to a more rigorous system of examination and search than British subjects.

Article VI.

There shall be reciprocal liberty of commerce and navigation between the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the kingdom of the two Sicilies. No duty of customs or other impost shall be charged upon any goods the produce or manufacture of one country, upon importation by sea and land, from such country into the other, either or higher than the duty or impost charged upon the goods of the same kind, the produce or manufacture of, or imported from any other country; and her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and his Majesty the King of the two Sicilies, do hereby engage, that the subjects or citizens of any other state, shall not enjoy any favor, privilege, or immunity whatever in matters of commerce and navigation, which shall not also and at the same time, be extended to the subjects of the other high contracting party; gratuitously if the concession in favor of that other state shall have been gratuitous, and in return for a compensation as nearly as possible of proportionate value and effect, to be adjusted by mutual agreement, if the concession shall have been conditional.

Article VII.

All articles of the produce or manufacture of either country and of their respective dominions, which can legally be imported into either country from the other, shall, when so imported, be subject to the same duties and enjoy the same privileges, whether imported in ships of the one country or in ships of the other; and, in like manner, all goods which can be legally exported or re-exported from either country for the other, shall, when so exported or re-exported, be subject to the same duties and be entitled to the same privileges, drawbacks, bounties, and allowances, whether exported in ships of the one country or in ships of the other.

Article VIII.

No duties of tonnage, harbour, lighthouse, pilotage, quarantine, or other similar duties, of whatever nature or under whatever denomination, shall be imposed in either country upon the vessels of the other, in respect of voyages between the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland or any of the British possessions in Europe, and the Kingdom of the two Sicilies, if laden, or in respect of any voyage if in ballast, which shall not be equally imposed in like cases on national vessels.
