THE following Report on the progress of the Marine Survey, North-West Coast, is published for general information.

GEORGE SHENTON,
Colonial Secretary.

Annual Report on the progress of the Marine Survey, N. W. Coast.

H. M. S. "Penguin,"

Hobart, 31st December, 1890.

SIR,

I have the honour to submit to Your Excellency an account of the work executed by Her Majesty's ship under my command during the year which closes to-day.

2. The "Penguin" was commissioned on the 14th January; but owing to various unexpected delays, she did not leave England until the 17th February. Her staff consisted of 2 Lieutenants, who were experienced surveyors (one of whom had been specially trained in the use of Magnetical instruments), and 4 other officers who were new to the duties of this branch of the Navy.

After performing many minor surveying duties on the voyage, and stopping at Gibraltar, Malta, Port Said, Aden, Colombo, and Batavia only to coal, she arrived at Koepang, in Timor, on the 15th May. Here a series of observations were taken to determine the longitude of Fort Concordia; and on the 17th, the ship left for Cartier Island, where she arrived on the 18th, and fixed the geographical position. The wreck of a barque called the "Ann Millicent" was found on the reef around the island.

3. On the 20th May, I left Cartier Island for Troughton Island, where we anchored on the 21st, and found the geographical position. From Troughton Island, a preliminary cruise was made through-out the length of the surveying ground allotted to us, which, as Your Excellency is aware, lies between Adèle Island and Cape Londonderry, the primary object being to find an inshore passage for steamships bound between Cambridge Gulf and Port Darwin and the Southern ports of Western Australia.

On this first cruise the latitudes and longitudes of the following salient points were carefully determined—Baudin Island near Cape Voltaire,—Queen's Islet near Bigge Island,—De Freycinet Island,—South Heywood Island,—and a conspicuous island near Cleft Island in the Buccaneer Archipelago. Returning to Baudin, a Meridian Distance was measured to the well-established secondary meridian of Port Darwin, the operation being performed twice to guard against any doubt as to the fidelity of the work. These two distances established Baudin Island, and the points above mentioned which depend upon it, as meridians which may be used with confidence for all future surveys in the neighbourhood.

4. After a thorough refit at Port Darwin, the triangulation was executed between Troughton island and Queen's Islet (near Bigge Island). When this was finished, the examination of the Holothuria Banks was taken in hand.

The survey of the Holothuria Banks proved to be a far longer work than at first appeared. Instead of consisting, as was supposed, of a number of coral reefs awash and over whose edges the water was breaking, clearly defining the limit of danger, they were found to be composed of one large reef awash at half tide and a very extensive bank of dead coral about 400 square miles in area, having a general depth of 12 to 16 fathoms with one or two shallow spots upon it. The whole of this bank had, of course, to be carefully sounded over; and as the water in that locality is so thick that nothing is visible 2 feet below the surface, it is necessary to sound closely to avoid omitting some shallow spot which would be dangerous to shipping.

5. On the 2nd October, having to rendezvous with another of Her Majesty's Ships, the survey of the Holothuria Banks was postponed, and some work taken in hand in the neighbourhood of Cape Voltaire, Baudin Island and Pascal Island. The surveying season came to a close on the 24th October, when I sailed for Roebuck Bay, measuring a Meridian Distance and running a line of soundings to that port.

6. During the five months the "Penguin" was working in the neighbourhood of Cape Bougainville, she passed on three occasions through a good inshore passage close to the Cape, inside of Low Rocks and Troughton Island, which would be available for ships of 18 feet draught and under. It has, this year, only been partially surveyed; but it will be completely charted early next season. It is questionable if it will be much used; for, though it saves some forty miles to vessels bound from Derby to Wyndham, there is really loss of time, owing to the absolute necessity of anchoring at night. Masters of vessels will probably prefer the detour which enables them to proceed after dark.

7. Roebuck Bay was reached on the 27th October. In accordance with a preconcerted arrangement with Mr. Charles Todd, C.M.G., F.R.S., the Government Astronomer of South Australia, an exchange of Time Signals was effected on the 31st October, which determined the Longitude of the end of the Triplicate Submarine Cable. This operation, which was simple enough so far as we were concerned, was by no means an easy matter for the Telegraph Department under Your Excellency's Government, who had, I believe, never undertaken such a duty before. The length of wire between Adelaide Observatory and Broome Post Office is no less than 3,567 miles. Several automatic repeaters had to be used, and many preliminary trials were necessary before everything could be considered ready. Owing to the kind attention of Mr. W. J. Hancock, Superintendent of Telegraphs, all difficulties were successfully overcome, and thirty-nine signals were exchanged from each end about apparent noon, which is the time most favourable for the precise determination of time when daylight is selected for the operation.

The position of the leading marks into the Inner Harbour were also fixed during our stay in Roebuck Bay; and the bar sounded over on the marks—the least water obtained being 13 feet at low water spring tide.

The Magnetic Elements were also obtained on shore.

8. Leaving Roebuck Bay on the 1st November, the "Penguin" proceeded to Cossack, measuring a Meridian Distance to Jarman Island lighthouse. It has, for many years, been suspected that at some point under the sea near Cossack, there is an area of Magnetic attraction where the compasses of ships are strangely deflected; and one object in visiting this port was to endeavour to detect any abnormal change in the Magnetic Elements. On the 4th, a series of observations were made for Longitude, and the Magnetic Elements were obtained near Reader Head by Lieutenant Jas. W. Combe, who found nothing remarkable either in dip, declination, or force. On the 5th the ship was swung twice 3 to 6 miles from the shore. On the first occasion there was a very slight indication of unusual variation. When leaving port on the usual track, in the afternoon, rather disappointed at not being able to discover this curious danger and inclined to disbelieve in its existence, our compasses were suddenly deflected 2 points to the left. At this time the ship was about 2 miles E. by N. of Bezout Island. I anchored and devoted the next morning to finding the focus or point of greatest Magnetic attraction, which proved to be a small spot not more than 50 feet in diameter 2.14 miles N. 79° E. from the summit of Bezout Island. When drifting over it, the compass needle was first deflected 23° to the left and then 55° to the right, this large change taking place in less than half a minute. The standard compass was 69 feet above the bottom of the sea, which was composed of quartz, sand, and shells. A needle freely suspended dipped to 83°.

What this very powerful Magnetic attraction is caused by is a profound mystery. It is on the line of no Magnetic variation, and in one of the hottest places in the world. As far as I am aware, there is no Magnetic ore on land which has been found to exert the enormous force experienced on this occasion. It yet remains to be proved if the focus is stationary. I venture to suggest that every opportunity be seized to obtain information from the masters of ships trading along the West and North-West coasts. Probably this is not the only area of Magnetic attraction. It is of great importance that all such spots should be fixed on the charts, as it is quite possible that iron ships may, on passing over the focus or close to it, acquire a new Magnetic character, which is not lost until they have travelled several miles on their course.

The Magnetic instruments were landed on Bezout Island, where the dip and declination were found to be normal.

9. On the passage to Gascoyne River the alleged position of Strathmore Rock was passed over on a day, in every respect, most favourable for the discovery of dangers; but no indication of shoal water was seen. The position of Cape Cuvier, about which some doubt has existed, was determined by bearings and found to agree with the published chart. Gascoyne River was reached on the 10th November. On the 11th, observations were made for the passage rates of the chronometers; and the Magnetic elements were obtained, the ship proceeding to sea on the 12th. I should mention that the light on the hulk off Gascoyne River is not of sufficient power to be of use to vessels making the port.

10. Owing to shortness of fuel and a moderate gale from the Southward, I was unable to reach Fremantle before the 22nd November. The night of the 21st was remarkably clear. Stars were seen to set on the horizon, which is unusual and denotes visibility. Rottneest light was seen with difficulty ten miles distant. I would venture to recommend that a flashing or occulting light of the 1st Order be erected here. The present light is misleading, and its retention may cause an accident.

11. As there was no coal at Fremantle, I was forced to remain (although much behind time) until the 3rd December. The delay was partly utilized in obtaining the longitude of Fremantle Lighthouse. Mr. Todd again kindly consented to exchange Time signals; and Mr. Hancock, as before, entered heartily into our plans, placing the telegraph at our disposal for about an hour at noon on the 28th November. Mr. F. A. Bailey of the Telegraph Department came to Fremantle specially to conduct the exchange of signals, which were successful, and resulted in placing Fremantle Lighthouse 48" west of the position assigned to it on the published charts.

12. On the 24th November, I reported to Sir Malcolm Fraser; and on the 2nd December I had the honour of an interview with Your Excellency. The Magnetic elements were obtained at Fremantle. I should mention that, on the 13th October, I received a letter from Sir Malcolm Fraser asking if an officer could be detached to survey the inner harbour in Hamelin Bay. I regret to say that I could not accede to this request. The "Penguin" was about to commence her voyage South and to spend three months in Hobart for the purpose of working up charts. Neither of the two experienced surveyors, who were respectively first and navigating lieutenants, could be spared; and I considered it advisable to keep the other gentlemen on board in order that they should benefit in common with the rest of the ship's company, from the change to a colder climate. I intimated that the ship might call in when passing, if the weather was favourable, and see what had to be done. This, however, proved—when the time came—to be impracticable. The only coal to be obtained at Fremantle was "Lithgow," of so inferior a quality that steam could be maintained only at half speed. When approaching Cape Leeuwin, I experienced a fair wind, descending barometer, and heavy westerly swell, 10 to 12 feet above mean sea level. To put into the exposed anchorage of Hamelin Bay with very defective steam power and such a swell would have been unjustifiable.

I do not propose, at any time, to detach officers, on my own responsibility, at long distances from Her Majesty's ship under my command. The work on the North-West Coast demands the energies of the whole staff. The amount of sounding to be accomplished before I can report to Your Excellency that the routes around Cape Bougainville are perfectly safe, is enormous; and I am of opinion that this ship should confine herself exclusively to this important work until the navigation from King's Sound to Cambridge Gulf is as safe as that around the east coasts of Australia.

13. A misapprehension appears to exist respecting Hydrographic work done by local authorities in the Colony. The Chief Harbour Master is under the impression that any surveys which he, or the officers under him, may undertake, will not be accepted by the Hydrographer. I can assure Your Excellency that this idea is erroneous. The existing chart of Shanghai was constructed by the Harbour Master, who happens to be an American. It was published under the authority of the Hydrographer to the Admiralty. The Chief Harbour Master of Queensland is in constant touch with our Hydrographic office, where his corrections to bars of rivers and other work are printed. Any bonâ fide work executed by the direction of Your Excellency's Government, and attested by the Surveyor General or Chief Harbour Master, will be inserted in the Admiralty charts.

The work required by Messrs. Davies could be easily performed by a land surveyor paid by the company. If he connected his work with the salient points of the existing chart, his plan would, no doubt, be accepted and published at home under the name of the person who executed it.

14. Although the "Penguin" was originally intended for ocean work in the South-West Pacific, and her deflection to the North-West Coast was due to an accident, it has now been decided that she is to continue the survey on that coast for a second year. She will arrive at Port Darwin about the last week in April, and proceed at once to complete the Holothuria Banks and passages around Troughton Island and Cape Bougainville.

15. Mr. J. J. Walker, the chief engineer and naturalist, has lost no opportunities of collecting entomological specimens at the various islands and places visited on the voyage from England, throughout the surveying ground, and on the voyage to Fremantle. Owing to the hostile attitude of the natives it has been impossible for Mr. Walker to make collections on the mainland. The aborigines are treacherous, and entirely ignorant of the power in our hands. With properly armed parties there would be no difficulty in going anywhere; but, as these people attack the surveying boats' crews whenever they have an opportunity, it is certain that an exploring party on the mainland would find it necessary to kill many of them in self-defence; and I have, therefore, decided to confine our operations to the islands and coast, and avoid the natives as much as possible.

16. Attached is a tracing from the published chart, which will show Your Excellency where the "Penguin" has been at work. I propose, shortly, to forward to Your Excellency a copy of the report on the Longitudes of Western Australia, and a Tracing of our Triangulation Sheet between Troughton Island and Queen's Islet (near Bigge Island); also, a few Hydrographic remarks, which I recommend be published in the form of a Notice to Mariners.

Commander.

GEORGE SHENTON,
Colonial Secretary.

²²⁷/₉₁ NOTICES TO MARINERS.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR has been pleased to direct that the following Notices to Mariners be published for general information.

By His Excellency's command,
E. NOEL WALKER,

Colonial Secretary's Office, Colonial Secretary.
Colombo, December 30, 1890.

CEYLON.

Kalkuda Bay.

It is hereby notified that a beacon has been erected at the extreme end of Vandeloos point. It is visible from a ship's deck at a distance of 12 miles.—it is dome-shaped, with a large ball at the top, the whole being painted white.

To clear the 8-foot patch of rock, which bears S $\frac{3}{4}$ E, distance 1 mile from the beacon, two leading posts have been erected (each 40 ft., high), with tripods built at the top. These two marks brought in one bearing W by N clear the above-named danger, the post nearest to the beach being painted white and the inner one red.

Anchorage.—Two leading posts have been erected to the N. W. corner of the Bay and about a $\frac{1}{4}$ mile to the eastward of the resthouse. These two posts brought in one bearing will lead to the anchorage, where a red buoy is moored about $\frac{1}{2}$ mile from the shore. These posts are 40 ft. high and visible 12 miles. There is a tripod erected at the top of each of these, the nearest one to the beach being painted white and the further one red.

[From the Government of Hongkong.]

GAP ROCK AND SURROUNDING DANGERS.

All bearings magnetic. Scale, 1 cable or 200 yards.

The dangers in the vicinity of the Gap Rock consist of three submerged reefs marked on plan,* A, B, and C: of these, A is the only one likely to prove dangerous to shipping.

*Plan may be seen at the Harbour Master's Office.

A is situated due west from the flagstaff on the highest point of the island, distant $\frac{3}{4}$ of a cable and half a cable from the nearest point of the shore. It consists of three heads, and has 9 ft. least water upon it.

B is situated N 18 W from the flagstaff, $\frac{6}{10}$ of a cable distant, and about 30 yards from the nearest point of the island; it has 3 ft. of water upon it.

C is situated N. E. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., from the flagstaff, distant $\frac{9}{10}$ of a cable, and about 50 yards from the shore. It consists of two heads, the inner being awash and the outer having 7 ft. upon it. These appear to be all the dangers in the neighbourhood.

NOTE.—These positions, though sufficiently correct for all practical purposes, are not, strictly speaking, accurate, as the state of the weather prevented any instruments being landed. The shape of the island is taken partly from observation and partly from a sketch by the Engineer in charge of the works.

Approved: B. M. CHAMBERS,
F. W. FREEMAN. Lieut. (N.)

YOJIBEI AND MANAITA BEACONS, SHIMONOSEKI STRAITS.

Notice is hereby given that Yojibei and Manaita Beacons in Shimonoseki Straits have been converted into Lighted Beacons, and that the lights will be exhibited on and after the 15th instant.

The beacons are built of stone, circular, in horizontal section and surmounted by small lanterns.

Manaita Beacon is painted in black and white horizontal bands, and will show a fixed white light visible through an arc of 270° between the bearings of N. 88° 35' E. and N. 1° 25' W.

Yojibei Beacon is painted red, and will show a fixed red light visible through an arc of 270° between the bearings of S. 20° 58' E. and N. 69° 2' E.

The bearings are true, and as observed from the beacons.

The elevations of the lights above the level of high water spring tides will be 19ft., and in clear weather they will be seen from a distance of 3 nautical miles.

NOTE.—The lights will be kept burning day and night by self-feeding arrangement without the attendance of a keeper. Should the lights go out by accident, there may be some delay in relighting them.

HIGH SCHOOL, PERTH.

THIS School was founded in 1876, under Act of Council, 40 Vict., No. 8, the Governors being a Corporation with perpetual succession.

Head Master—F. C. FAULKNER, B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; lately Assistant Master of the High School, Christchurch, N.Z.

Second Master—E. W. HAYNES, C.E.; late Queen's University, Ireland.

Writing Master—G. W. BELL.

Governors:

Sir MALCOLM FRASER, K.C.M.G. (1879)
The Honorable GEORGE SHENTON, M.L.C., Colonial Secretary (1879)

J. C. H. JAMES, B.A., Oxon; Commissioner of Titles (1886)

Sir J. G. LEE STEERE, Kt., Speaker of the Legislative Assembly (1888)

The Honorable Sir T. COCKBURN-CAMPBELL, Bart., President of the Legislative Council (1888)

E. SCOTT, M.L.A. (1890)

The Honorable JOHN WINTHROP HACKETT, M.L.C.; M.A., Dublin; sometime Sub Warden, Trinity College, Melbourne University (1890)

In order to meet modern requirements, and to fit boys for Colonial life or for mercantile pursuits, it has been decided to make the study of dead languages optional. Parents of boys may however feel not less sure than heretofore of finding thorough classical instruction for their sons. The University Exhibitions, open for competition throughout the Colony, have in each case been awarded to a High School boy.

Scriptural instruction is given, out of school hours, to boys whose parents or guardians wish them to receive it.

Fees.

The present scale of fees is as follows:—

For each boy over 12 years of age on the first day of the term, £3 6s. 8d. per term.

For each boy under 12 years of age on the first day of the term, £2 13s. 4d. per term.

In the case of two or more brothers attending the school, a reduction of 10 per cent. will be allowed in the fees for tuition.

The fees for each resident boarder are at the rate of £60 per annum for a boy over 12 years of age, and £50 per annum under 12 years, inclusive of the tuition fee.

Boys are received from the age of eight years and upwards.

Scholarships.

There are two High School Scholarships of the annual value of £50, open to competition by boys from any of the Elementary Schools.

Terms and Vacations.

The year is divided into 3 terms, with vacations of 6 weeks at Christmas; 1 week at Easter, during which it is optional for boarders to remain at the School without additional charge; and 5 weeks at Midwinter.

The present term at the High School will end on Wednesday, the 17th instant, and the next term will begin on Saturday morning, January 31st, 1891, at 9 o'clock.

New boys will be expected to attend for the purpose of examination at 2 p.m. the preceding day.

It would be a convenience if parents, who intend to send boarders, would communicate with the Head Master at an early date.

Further particulars may be obtained of

C. BARCLAY KIDSON,
Secretary.

December 15th, 1890.

AT a Meeting of the Canning Roads Board it was resolved that that portion of the old Guildford road be closed, leading from the main Canning road near Yule's Brook, through Locations 7, 286, 5, S. 2033, $\frac{7}{18}$, to the corner of 984.
