Application No. 2831.—Charles Henry Water-MAN, of Pompton Plains, Morris County, New Jersey, United States of America, Manager, "Process for Enamelling."—Dated 20th January, 1900.

Claim:

Claim:—

The process herein set forth of flashing enamel on to surfaces of a refractory material, which consists in applying the enamelling material to the desired surface and subjecting such surface to the action of uniform electric heat delivered at once on and over the entire coated surface in a plane parallel thereto, whereby all the enamelling material is instantaneously and simultaneously fused over the whole surface to which it is applied while the body of the article is left relatively cool.

Specification 7s. Denviron on empleation. Specification, 7s. Drawings on application.

Application No. 2839.—John Vaughan Sherrin, of 28 Victoria Street, Westminster, in the County of Middlesex, England, Electrical Engineer, "Improvements in the Manufacture of Varnishes, Drying Oils, Enamel Paints, and Wool Washes, applicable also as Insecticides and other purposes."—Dated 30th January, 1900.

Claims:

- Claims:—

 1. The process for the manufacture of an oleaginous product consisting in heating linseed oil to about 600° F. (315° C.), sprinkling gradually thereon kauri gum dust or the like while agitating, adding gradually a suitable drying agent, mixing gradually the aforesaid mixture with rosin while agitating, said rosin having previously been heated to about 400° F. (203° C.), then cooling down the mixture to about 90 to 100° F. (32 to 38° C.), and finally adding petroleum for thinning it down, then leaving the mixture to settle, and then drawing off the clear product substantially as and in the proportions stated.

 2. The process for the manufacture of a varnish consisting in heating linseed oil to about 600° F. (315° C.), sprinkling gradually thereon kauri gum dust or the like while agitating, adding gradually acetate of man-ganese, mixing gradually the aforesaid mixture with rosin while agitating, said rosin having previously been heated to about $400^{\circ}\,\mathrm{F.}$ (203° C.), then cooling down the mixture to 90 or $100^{\circ}\,\mathrm{F.}$ (32 to 38° C.), and finally thinning it down with refined petroleum, then leaving the mixture to settle, and then drawing off the clear liquid substantially as and in the proportions stated.

- 3. The process for the manufacture of a substitute for boiled oil consisting in beating linseed oil to about 600° F. (315° C.), sprinkling gradually thereon kauri gum dust or the like, adding gradually acetate or borate of manganese, mixing gradually the aforesaid mixture with rosin, said rosin having previously been heated to about 400° F. (203° C.), them cooling down to 90 to 100° F. (32 to 38° C.), and finally thinning it down with refined petroleum, then leaving the mixture to settle, and then drawing off the clear product substantially as and in the proportions stated.
- 4. The modified process for the manufacture of a varnish according to which in the secondly claimed process gum dammer, copal, or the like is substituted for the kauri gum, and the drying agent used is sulphate or borate of manganese or boracic acid.
- 5. The modified process of manufacture of an oil according to which in the thirdly claimed process gum dammer is substituted for the kauri gum, and the drying agent used is sulphate or borate of manganese or boracic acid.
- 6. The manufacture by a cold process of an oleaginous compound soluble in water by mixing the varnish or the oil made as secondly and thirdly claimed with a caustic alkali solution adding a little petroleum while agitating, and thinning it down with petroleum substantially as set forth.
- 7. As a new or improved article of manufacture the varnish made as secondly claimed.
- 8. As a new or improved article of manufacture the substitute for boiled oil made as thirdly claimed.
- $9. \ \, \text{As a new or improved article of } \ \, \text{manufacture the varnish made as fourthly claimed.}$
- $\overline{\mbox{10}}.$ As a new or improved article of manufacture the oil made as fifthly claimed.
- 11. As a new or improved article of manufacture the oleaginous compound soluble in water made as sixthly claimed. 12. As a new or improved article of manufacture the enamel or paint made with the varnish or boiled oil made as described.
- $13. \ \ \ As a new or improved article of manufacture the wool wash made as described.$

Specification, 8s.

Application No. 2840 .-- THE "N.L." SYNDICATE, Limited, of Finsbury House, Blomfield Street, London, England (Assignee of Franz (Assignee of GATZSCHE), "Improvements in Floorcloth and in the method of manufacturing the same."-Dated 30th January, 1900.

- 1. The composition to be used in making the improved floorcloth, consisting of water, glue, wax, plumbic ochre, linseed oil, and tungstic acid in the proportions specified and substantially as described.
- 2. The method of manufacturing floorcloth from the ingredients named in Claim 1, by placing a suitable felted webbing or fabric in the composition at a temperature of about 80° Centigrade, until it is entirely impregnated, then removing it and passing it between rollers to reduce it to the thickness required for the floorcloth, substantially as described.

Specification, 3s. 6d.

Application No. 2841.—The "N.L." Syndicate. LIMITED, of Finsbury House, Blomfield Street, England (Assignee Gatzsche), "Improvements in Soles and Heels for Boots and Shoes and in the method of manufacturing the same."—Dated 30th January, 1900.

- 1. The improved composition to be used for the soles and heels of boots and shoes, consisting of waste from paper manufactories, asphaltum, resin, turpentine oil, peroxyde of iron, and tallow, in the proportions specified and substantially as described.
- 2. The method of manufacturing soles and heels for boots and shoes from the ingredients named in the first claim, by placing the paper waste in a mixture of all the other ingredients at a temperature of about 80deg. Centigrade until it is entirely impregnated, then pressing the entire mixture between rollers so as to form sheets of suitable thickness from which soles and heels for boots and shoes are made, substantially as described.

Specification, 3s.

Application No. 2843.— Esther Nable, of Castlereagh Street, Redfern, in the Colony of New South Wales, Married Lady, "Improvements in Garment Pockets."—Dated 30th January, 1900.
