Payments of accounts to be made monthly.

This contract to be terminable upon one month's notice from either party, but it may be cancelled without notice from the Commissioner of Police for bad workmanship.

INSTRUCTIONS.

The following instructions are to be observed by all Farriers shoeing Police horses:—

The shoes for the fore-feet should be of a uniform width from toe to heel, averaging from seven-eighths to one inch, and of an uniform thickness from toe to heel of about three-eighths of an inch, but in the case of horses which travel exclusively on bush roads the shoe may be made narrower and thicker in proportion. The heel of the shoe should on no account be thicker than any other portion of it. There should be seven nails in each shoe—four on the outside and three on the inside, and the last nail on the inside should not be further back or nearer to the heel than about midway between the toe and the heel of the shoe.

The heel of the hind shoe may be a little thicker than any other portion of the shoe, but in other respects the same remarks apply as to the fore shoes.

Calkins are never to be allowed on the fore shoes except where the horse has to travel over mountainous districts and cannot do without them, as they are inconvenient for the horse to travel in, and by the undue pressure they cause on the heels of the feet they produce bruises and corns, and frequently in a very short time render the animal quite useless.

The shoe, when fitted to the foot, should present, from toe to heel, a perfectly plane or flat surface on that part which rests on the crust or wall of the foot, and should in every instance follow the natural shape of the foot, more especially from the quarters to the heels.

The feet should be prepared by carefully removing the dead or shelly portions with the rasp and knife, but on no account should the sole of the foot be pared to admit of its being sprung by the thumb of the smith, as is too frequently the case, for the sensitive foot, when thus denuded of its horny cover, is very liable to become bruised by the animal's treading on a stone or some other hard substance.

The heels should not be cut open, as it is termed, nor should the bars, which act as buttresses to prevent the heels contracting, be removed. The wall or crust should be levelled from heel to toe to receive the shoe. The heel of the fore foot, for about half an inch from the extreme point, may be about one-sixteenth part of an inch lower than the quarters, so that when the shoe is on a thin knife may be passed between it and the foot at the heel.

Unless in exceptional cases, which will seldom occur, the frog should not be pared, but should be left to itself. Nature will remove the superfluous horn, and the rags can do no harm, and if left alone will soon disappear altogether.

The foot should never be rasped above the clinches of the nails, as it only weakens the foot, and leaves less horn to nail to when it grows down.
