2. The male and female patients shall be kept in separate wards, and no male attendant, servant, or patient shall be allowed to enter the female side, or any female to enter the male side, except in the discharge of some duty, or with adequate authority.

Any attendant or servant transgressing this rule, unless a satisfactory explanation is given to the Medical Superintendent, shall be immediately reported to the Inspector General.

3. During the day the patients shall be employed as much as possible in their respective trades, and in suitable occupations in or out of doors; and as a principle of treatment endeavours shall be made continually to occupy the patients, to induce them to take exercise in the open air, and to promote cheerfulness and happiness amongst them.

All attendants and nurses with patients working are also to work in order to set an example.

4. The patients shall be induced to have frequent recourse to the various amusements provided for them, both indoor and outdoor, and they shall be encouraged to read the books and publications which are provided for them.

Attendants and nurses are required as a matter of duty to enter into the amusements of the patients and to dance or participate in any game that the patients are engaged in, provided such participation does not interfere with the supervision of the other patients.

5. The airing courts shall be open to the respective classes of patients every day when the weather is favourable, and shall be used as far as circumstances will permit.

6. With the exception of rooms for single patients, no dormitory shall contain less than three beds. Patients shall sleep singly.

7. No naked lights shall be used in any of the wards or dormitories, nor shall any lantern be used which has not the sanction of the Medical Superintendent. No patient shall be allowed to have matches in his possession except by permission of the Medical Superintendent. Every possible precaution must be taken to avoid the occurrence of fire in the Hospital.

8. The religious persuasion of every patient will be, as far as possible, ascertained and recorded in the Register of Patients. 11. In such cases, wherever possible, no employee shall attempt to deal singly with the patient, but shall procure the assistance of another employee, or, if need be, of more than one.

KINDNESS TO PATIENTS.

12. All attendants shall treat their patients kindly, and shall not speak harshly to them. They shall be responsible for the safety, tidiness, cleanliness, and general condition of their patients, and for the proper ventilation and good order of their wards. The attendants, nurses, and servants are to take their clothes to the laundry with written lists, and the quantity is not to exceed that authorised.

20. All attendants, nurses, and servants, when engaged, shall be put on probation for twelve months, subject to giving entire satisfaction, before being finally confirmed in their appointments. Uniforms may be issued after six months. During their probation the attendant, nurse, or servant may be discharged at any time by reason of incompetence, misconduct, or being temperamentally unfit, wages being paid only to the date of discharge, but after appointment is confirmed one month's notice will be given, except in case of extreme misconduct.

21. In all cases attendants, nurses and servants are expected to give one month's notice in writing, prior to leaving their situations (except with the consent of the Medical Superintendent) or to forfeit one month's salary.

27. Monetary transactions are strictly forbidden between employees and officers, other employees or patients.

28. No address or testimonial shall be accepted by any employee in connection with his public duties without the sanction of the Minister, unless it is from the Inspector General, the Medical Superintendent, or Managing Secretary, giving an employee a reference of character and ability.

29. Any attendant or other employee is liable to instant dismissal by the Inspector General for being intoxicated, or neglecting any of the patients, or for any act of insubordination or misconduct.

30. The authorised entrance or exit for all employees and servants to and from the Hospital is only by the authorised gates.

31. The most scrupulous cleanliness is required in every part of the Institution.

32. Any escape shall be immediately reported to the Head Attendant and Lodge-keeper, and the former shall forthwith report to the Medical Superintendent.

(28.) When patients sleep in a ward other than their own the attendant in charge of the ward from which they are sent is to forward with them a written list of the patients so removed, which list shall be given to the attendant in charge of the ward to which they are taken, and this arrangement shall be carried out in every case of transfer from ward to ward.

(29.) Should any patient require to be bathed, removed from one ward to another, dressed or undressed, or otherwise dealt with whilst in a state of excitement or violence, the attendant in charge shall always be present.
