R. H. DOIG,
Clerk of the Council.

Schedule.

Uniform By-laws for the Construction of Television Masts and Antennae.

1. In these by-laws, unless inconsistent with the context or subject matter, or some other meaning is clearly intended—

“aerial” or “television aerial” means a television receiving antenna and its supporting mast;

“erect” includes instal and affix whether on or to a building or on land;

“Local Authority” means the Board of a Road District;

“prescribed height” means a height not exceeding twelve feet from the lowest point of attachment; and

“surveyor” means building surveyor as defined in the Road Districts Act, or any officer of a Local Authority acting in that capacity.

2. No person shall erect or instal a television aerial on any land or building in a road district except pursuant to the provisions of these by-laws.

3. No person shall erect an aerial of a height exceeding the prescribed height without license from the Local Authority.

4. (1) Any person requiring a license to erect an aerial of a height greater than the prescribed height shall make written application therefor to the Local Authority.

(2) An application shall be accompanied by—

(a) a block plan showing the position of all buildings in relation to the boundaries of the land on which and the position in which the aerial is to be erected; and

(b) a plan setting out the details of the aerial, the method by which it is to be erected or affixed on or to any building or the soil and of all supporting guy wires; and

(c) a specification.

5. Upon the granting of a license as provided in by-law 3 hereof the grantee shall pay to the Local Authority a fee of ten shillings.

6. Any person erecting an aerial, whether of a height greater than the prescribed height or not shall comply with the following rules:—

(A) Scope.—These rules apply to all aerials for use with television receivers.

(B) Construction.—Masts, aerials, and their supports, shall be designed and installed to withstand pressures and vibrations caused by wind loads to which the area is ordinarily subjected, and in any case wind loads of not less than thirty pounds weight per square foot.

Masts, aerials, and their supports, including bases, guys, turnbuckles and other appurtenances shall be inherently corrosion-resistant or shall be rendered corrosion-resistant by galvanising, or other equivalent means and, in the case of roof mounted masts or aerials, shall be of non-ignitable material, unless the surveyor expressly approves of the use of other material.

Galvanised components shall comply with the appropriate requirements of Australian Standard No. K3-1942, Testing Zinc Coatings on Galvanised Articles.

Wooden poles may be used as masts if the portion in contact with the ground is adequately treated with a satisfactory wood preservative.

- (C) Location and Clearances.—No aerial shall project beyond the boundary of the premises on which it is erected and every aerial shall be so erected and maintained as to obviate the danger of its falling onto a public place or other premises.

No aerial or lead-in conductor shall pass over or under any telephone line or overhead power line and shall be kept sufficiently clear of all such circuits as to obviate the possibility of accidental contact. In any case when proximity to overhead lines cannot be obviated, the installation shall be such as to provide a clearance of six feet at least in the case of circuits not exceeding 250 volts to earth and ten feet at least in the case of circuits exceeding 250 volts to earth.

The clearance between lead-in conductors and any conductor forming part of a lightning protection system shall not be less than six feet.

- (D) Limitation on Height.—No aerial mounted on a roof, parapet wall or chimney shall, without the express approval of the Local Authority, extend more than ten feet above the ridge of the roof of the building on which it is erected or, in the case of a flat roof more than twelve feet above the surface thereof or in the case of a skillion roof more than twelve feet above the highest portion thereof.

In the case of a flat or skillion roof the aerial shall be guyed in accordance with rule (F) hereof.

- (E) Mounting.—

- (i) General.—All aerials having a free length over ten feet shall be guyed in accordance with rule (F) hereof.

No aerial shall be mounted on, or be in any way braced by vent pipes or similar structures.

- (ii) On Roofs.—An aerial installed on a roof shall be mounted on a base of adequate size securely anchored to the roof. The aerial shall be supported only by non-ignitable materials, unless the surveyor expressly approves the use of other materials.

- (iii) On Chimneys.—An aerial mounted on a chimney shall be securely attached by metal strapping or lashing embracing the periphery of the chimney. Where a chimney has walls of less than nine inches in thickness, each corner of the chimney shall be reinforced with angle-iron of one-eighth guage in the dimensions set out in the Table to this rule and the angle-iron shall be held firmly in position against the chimney by the strapping or lashing in this paragraph mentioned.

If for any reason the reinforcement mentioned in this paragraph cannot be applied then the surveyor may approve an alternative method of reinforcement.

In every case the aerial shall be attached as close to the base of the chimney as may be practicable.

Table of Dimensions of Reinforcement.

Free Length of Aerial in Feet.	Length of Reinforcement in Inches.
Up to 6	12
6 to 8	15
8 to 10	18

- (iv) On Walls.—Aerials may be mounted on nine-inch thick parapet walls or eleven-inch cavity parapet walls except that in the latter case the attachment shall be by a bolted and plated connection through both walls and then only where the walls are capable of carrying the load so imposed.

- (v) Ground Supported.—Ground-supported aerials, unless designed to be self-supporting, shall be guyed in accordance with rule (F) hereof.

Wooden poles may be used as masts if any portion of the mast in contact with the ground is adequately treated with a satisfactory wood preservative.

No pole slip shall be installed closer than seven and one-half feet from the ground or other readily accessible place.

- (F) Guying.—In any case where guy wires are required by these by-laws to be installed there shall be three or more equally spaced guy wires for the first twenty feet of mast height. Additional sets of guy wires shall be installed for each section of a telescopic aerial or at such intervals as will ensure rigidity of the structure for other types of aerial.

No guy wire shall be of less than three-thirty-seconds of an inch six-strand galvanised cable. The attachment of guys to anchors, aerials, turnbuckles or other fastenings shall be made with adequate guy thimbles or equivalent fixture.

In the case of roof aerial guys, anchor screws shall be securely fastened to rafters, beams, or other substantial framing member of the structure. In the case of ground aerial guys, the anchor screws shall be securely fastened to a substantial support and shall not be attached to trees.

- (G) Earthing.—

- (i) General.—Metal structures supporting antennae shall be solidly earthed using an earthing conductor not smaller than 0.0045 square inches (7/029 in.) connected with a suitable clamp to a continuous metallic cold water piping supply system or to an earth electrode consisting of a metallic pipe or rod driven into the ground so that at least four feet of the pipe or rod is below ground level. Wherever practicable, such electrodes shall be located not closer than six feet to any power earthing system and shall not be bonded to the power earthing system.

- (ii) Labelling.—The earthing conductor shall be labelled at or immediately adjacent to the point at which it is connected to a water pipe or electrode. Such label shall consist of a metallic disc, securely attached to the earthing conductor and shall be clearly and indelibly marked with the words, "Radio Earth."

- (iii) Joints.—Joints in earthing conductors shall be made by soldering or by mechanical clamping. In the case of mechanical clamping, the conductor shall be twisted together and clamped between such metal surfaces as a bolt and nut with washers so constructed and arranged as to prevent spreading of the conductor strands, or by means of not less than two screws, according to the form of connector used.

- (H) Lightning Arresters.—All lead-in conductors from an outdoor aerial shall be provided with a suitable lightning arrester but where the lead-in conductors are enclosed in a continuous metallic sheathing, a lightning arrester may be installed to protect the sheathing or may be omitted if the sheathing is permanently and effectively earthed. Lightning arresters shall be located either outside the building, or inside the building between the point of entrance of the lead-in conductor and the receiver, and as near as practicable to the entrance of the conductors to the building. No lightning arrester shall be located near combustible material.

A lightning arrester shall be earthed as required by rule (G) hereof.

7. A person who commits a breach of the provisions of any of these by-laws is liable on conviction to a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds.

R. H. DOIG,
Clerk of the Council.

Schedule.

Uniform Regulations for the Construction of Television Masts and Antennae.

1. In these regulations unless inconsistent with the context or subject matter, or some other meaning is clearly intended—

“aerial” or “television aerial” means a television receiving antenna and its supporting mast;

“erect” includes instal and affix whether on or to a building or on land;

“Local Authority” means a municipality and the council thereof;

“prescribed height” means a height not exceeding twelve feet from the lowest point of attachment; and

“surveyor” means building surveyor as defined in the Municipal Corporations Act.

2. No person shall erect or instal a television aerial on any land or building in a municipal district except pursuant to the provisions of these regulations.

3. No person shall erect an aerial of a height exceeding the prescribed height without license from the Local Authority.

4. (1) Any person requiring a license to erect an aerial of a height greater than the prescribed height shall make written application therefor to the Local Authority.

(2) An application shall be accompanied by—

(a) a block plan showing the position of all buildings in relation to the boundaries of the land on which and the position in which the aerial is to be erected; and

(b) a plan setting out the details of the aerial, the method by which it is to be erected or affixed on or to any building or the soil and of all supporting guy wires; and

(c) a specification.

5. Upon the granting of a license as provided in regulation 3 hereof the grantee shall pay to the Local Authority a fee of ten shillings.

6. Any person erecting an aerial, whether of a height greater than the prescribed height or not, shall comply with the following rules:—

(A) Scope.—These rules apply to all aerials for use with television receivers.

(B) Construction.—Masts, aerials, and their supports, shall be designed and installed to withstand pressures and vibrations caused by wind loads to which the area is ordinarily subjected, and in any case wind loads of not less than thirty pounds weight per square foot.

Masts, aerials, and their supports, including bases, guys, turnbuckles and other appurtenances shall be inherently corrosion-resistant or shall be rendered corrosion-resistant by galvanising, or other equivalent means, and, in the case of roof mounted masts or aerials, shall be of non-ignitable material unless the surveyor expressly approves of the use of other material.

Galvanised components shall comply with the appropriate requirements of Australian Standard No. K3-1942, Testing Zinc Coatings on Galvanised Articles.

Wooden poles may be used as masts if the portion in contact with the ground is adequately treated with a satisfactory wood preservative.

(C) Location and Clearances.—No aerial shall project beyond the boundary of the premises on which it is erected and every aerial shall be so erected and maintained as to obviate the danger of its falling onto a public place or other premises.

No aerial or lead-in conductor shall pass over or under any telephone line or overhead power line and shall be kept sufficiently clear of all such circuits as to obviate the possibility of accidental contact. In any case when proximity to overhead lines cannot be obviated the installation shall be such as to provide a clearance of six feet at least in the case of circuits not exceeding 250 volts to earth and ten feet at least in the case of circuits exceeding 250 volts to earth.

The clearance between lead-in conductors and any conductor forming part of a lightning protection system shall not be less than six feet.

(D) Limitation on Height.—No aerial mounted on a roof, parapet wall or chimney shall, without the express approval of the Local Authority, extend more than ten feet above the ridge of the roof of the building on which it is erected or, in the case of a flat roof more than twelve feet above the surface thereof or in the case of a skillion roof more than twelve feet above the highest portion thereof.

In the case of a flat or skillion roof the aerial shall be guyed in accordance with rule (F) hereof.

(E) Mounting—

(i) General.—All aerials having a free length over ten feet shall be guyed in accordance with rule (F) hereof.

No aerial shall be mounted on, or be in any way braced by vent pipes or similar structures.

(ii) On Roofs.—An aerial installed on a roof shall be mounted on a base of adequate size securely anchored to the roof. The aerial shall be supported only by non-ignitable materials, unless the surveyor expressly approves the use of other materials.

(iii) On Chimneys.—An aerial mounted on a chimney shall be securely attached by metal strapping or lashing embracing the periphery of the chimney. Where a chimney has walls of less than nine inches in thickness each corner of the chimney shall be re-inforced with angle-iron of one-eighth guage in the dimensions set out in the Table to this rule and the angle-iron shall be held firmly in position against the chimney by the strapping or lashing in this paragraph mentioned.

If for any reason the reinforcement mentioned in this paragraph cannot be applied then the surveyor may approve an alternative method of reinforcement.

In every case the aerial shall be attached as close to the base of the chimney as may be practicable.

Table of Dimensions of Reinforcement.

Free Length of Aerial in Feet.	Length of Reinforcement in Inches.
Up to 6	12
6 to 8	15
8 to 10	18

- (iv) On Walls.—Aerials may be mounted on nine-inch thick parapet walls or 11-inch cavity parapet walls except that in the latter case the attachment shall be by a bolted and plated connection through both walls and then only where the walls are capable of carrying the load so imposed.
- (v) Ground Supported.—Ground-supported aerials, unless designed to be self-supporting, shall be guyed in accordance with rule (F) hereof.

Wooden poles may be used as masts if any portion of the mast in contact with the ground is adequately treated with a satisfactory wood preservative.

No pole slip shall be installed closer than seven and one-half feet from the ground or other readily accessible place.

- (F) Guying.—In any case where guy wires are required by these regulations to be installed there shall be three or more equally spaced guy wires for the first 20 feet of mast height. Additional sets of guy wires shall be installed for each section of a telescopic aerial or at such intervals as will ensure rigidity of the structure for other types of aerial.

No guy wire shall be of less than three thirty-seconds of an inch six strand galvanised cable. The attachment of guys to anchors, aerials, turnbuckles or other fastenings shall be made with adequate guy thimbles or equivalent fixture.

In the case of roof aerial guys, anchor screws shall be securely fastened to rafters, beams, or other substantial framing member of the structure. In the case of ground aerial guys, the anchor screws shall be securely fastened to a substantial support and shall not be attached to trees.

- (G) Earthing.—

- (i) General.—Metal structures supporting antennae shall be solidly earthed using an earthing conductor not smaller than 0.0045 square inches (7/.029 in.) connected with a suitable clamp to a continuous metallic cold water piping supply system or to an earth electrode consisting of a metallic pipe or rod driven into the ground so that at least four feet of the pipe or rod is below ground level. Wherever practicable, such electrodes shall be located not closer than six feet to any power earthing system and shall not be bonded to the power earthing system.
- (ii) Labelling.—The earthing conductor shall be labelled at or immediately adjacent to the point at which it is connected to a water pipe or electrode. Such label shall consist of a metallic disc, securely attached to the earthing conductor and shall be clearly and indelibly marked with the words "Radio Earth."

- (iii) Joints.—Joints in earthing conductors shall be made by soldering or by mechanical clamping. In the case of mechanical clamping, the conductors shall be twisted together and clamped between such metal surfaces as a bolt and nut with washers so constructed and arranged as to prevent spreading of the conductor strands, or by means of not less than two screws, according to the form of connector used.

- (H) Lightning Arresters.—All lead-in conductors from an outdoor aerial shall be provided with a suitable lightning arrester, but where the lead-in conductors are enclosed in a continuous metallic sheathing, a lightning arrester may be installed to protect the sheathing or may be omitted if the sheathing is permanently and effectively earthed. Lightning arresters shall be located either outside the building, or inside the building between the point of entrance of the lead-in conductor and the receiver, and as near as practicable to the entrance of the conductors to the building. No lightning arrester shall be located near combustible material.

A lightning arrester shall be earthed as required by rule (G) hereof.

7. A person who commits a breach of the provisions of any of these regulations is liable on conviction to a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds.

Details of Scheme No. 4B.

1. Area.—This Scheme shall apply to the land contained within a blue border on the Plans Nos. 1 and 2. The said land is hereinafter referred to as the Area.

2. General Objects.—The general objects of the Scheme are to improve and develop the Area to the best possible advantage and to secure suitable provision for new roads and to enable the land in the Area to be subdivided.

3. Acquisition of Land.—The land in the Area of the Scheme shall be resumed or otherwise acquired for the purposes of the Scheme.

4. Re-Survey of Area.—The Area shall be re-surveyed according to the design shown on Plan No. 2.

5. Works to be Carried Out.—The new roads shall be constructed and drained.

6. Re-Allocations of Lots.—The lots created by the re-survey of the Area will be apportioned among the owners of land in the Area as nearly as may be proportionately to the area of land previously owned by each individual owner. Each individual owner will be offered a block or blocks of land as nearly as may be in the same position as the land acquired from him and where possible having the same amenities of view, corner position and the like. The offer will be made subject to the owner releasing the Board from all claims for compensation in respect of the acquisition of his land, and subject to the payment by him of his proportion of the costs of the Scheme.

The remaining lots, if any, will be treated as surplus lots.

7. Surplus Lots.—All surplus lots shall be sold by the Board.

8. Method of Sale of Surplus Lots.—The Board may sell the surplus lots, either by public auction, tender or private contract, as a whole or in separate lots, upon such terms and conditions as the Board shall think fit. In the event of a sale by private contract the price shall not be less than the price recommended by the Chief Valuer of the Taxation Department of Western Australia unless after submitting the land for sale by public auction or by tender that price has not been obtained.

9. Costs of Scheme.—The Scheme shall be debited with—

- (a) The administration costs of the Scheme.

- (e) All compensation payable to owners who do not accept the offer mentioned in paragraph 6 hereof and all costs and expenses of determining and settling the compensation payable.
- (f) The costs of the transfers of the new lots to the owners pursuant to paragraph 6 hereof.

10. Apportionment of Costs.—The costs of the Scheme shall be divided equally between all new residential lots in the Area. Upon a transfer of a new lot to an owner, his proportion of the net costs of the Scheme shall be paid by him.

11. Claims for Compensation.—In the event of any claims for compensation not having been settled at the time when the Board is ready to transfer lots pursuant to this Scheme the Board may estimate the amount of compensation payable and the costs relating thereto and debit the Scheme with the nett amount so estimated. In the event of the Board doing so the difference between the estimate and the actual compensation and cost payable shall be received or paid by the Board as the case may be.

12. Encumbrances on Title.—In the event of any land in the Area being subject to a registered mortgage charge or lease or to a caveat to protect the interests of the purchaser, mortgagee chargee or lessee, the Board shall not transfer a new lot to the owner unless subject to similar encumbrances or with the consent of all persons entitled to the benefit of the encumbrances.

13. Administration.—The authority responsible for the administration of this Scheme is the Perth Road Board.

I certify that the foregoing is a copy of minute of ordinary meeting of the Perth Road Board held on the 16th day of September, 1958.
