Welding is not a hazardous occupation when simple and obvious precautions are taken. It is therefore recommended that all interested make themselves familiar with the Welding and Cutting Regulations, 1962, and the suggestions in this notice and relevant publications of Standards Association of Australia.

Cylinders should be handled with care.

Cylinders should be marked with the name of gas contained therein.

Acetylene should always be referred to by its proper name, "acetylene," and not the word "gas."

Oxygen should always be referred to by its proper name, "oxygen" and not the word, "air."

Calcium carbide must be stored where it cannot contact water. In case of fire, water or foam extinguishers must not be used.

Acetylene generators must be only used, cleaned, recharged in a place with ample ventilation away from any source of ignition and where smoking is prohibited. A generator must not be altered to allow it to operate at pressures or production rates higher than for which it was designed.

Acetylene cylinders should be stored and used in an upright position.

Woollen outer clothing is preferable to cotton.

Low cut shoes should not be worn.

Trousers should not have cuffs.

Sleeves and collars should be kept buttoned to prevent lodgment of sparks.

Non-conducting impervious mats will reduce the risk of shock in electric arc or resistance welding.

Prior to entering a confined space, the air should be tested for contamination or oxygen enrichment.

All persons concerned should be instructed in the correct and most efficient use of the fire fighting equipment available.
