SALARIES AND ALLOWANCES TRIBUNAL

(12 September 1986)

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

The Salaries and Allowances Act requires the Tribunal, at intervals of not more than one year to make a determination of the remuneration to be paid to the following officers.

- Ministers of the Crown and the Parliamentary Secretary of Cabinet;
- Officers and Members of the Parliament including additional remuneration to be paid to members of Select Committees of a House or Joint Select Committees of Houses;
- Officers of the Public Service holding offices included in the Special Division of the Public Service; and
- A person holding any other office of a full-time nature, created or established under a law of the State, that is prescribed, but not being an office the remuneration for which is determined by or under any industrial award or agreement made or in force under any other law of the State.

In conducting its 1986 review, the Tribunal published advertisements in both the local and national daily newspapers seeking submissions from interested parties in respect of the remuneration of Officers and Members of Parliament. In addition, it wrote to all Members of Parliament inviting submissions.

MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT

The Tribunal received a total of 29 submissions concerning the remuneration of Members and Office Holders.

Of these, seven were from members of the public, three were from the Parliamentary Parties, 11 were from Members, five were from Office Holders and three from former Members.

BASIC SALARY

The Tribunal in its Determination of 6 July 1981 considered that a Member's basic salary should be equal to 90 per cent of the base salary applying to a Federal Parliamentarian. The implementation of this relativity was delayed until December 1983, due to economic circumstances and the provisions of the Salaries and Wages Freeze Act 1982.

In 1984 the Commonwealth Remuneration Tribunal found that to place Federal Members on a "firm and equitable base" for the future operation of the Wage Principles required an increase in their base salary of 11.7 per cent. Due to representations from the various parties, individual Members and Senators, this increase was not determined. The Tribunal advised that it would consider the restoration of the proper level of remuneration when circumstances permit.

In October 1984, having regard to the Commonwealth's action and the economic climate, our Tribunal determined an increase of 5.7 per cent. By severing the nexus the basic salary of WA Parliamentarians became 95.12 per cent of that of their Federal counterparts.

Western Australia was the only State where an increase outside of the National Wage Case decisions was applied to Parliamentarians in 1984.

The Commonwealth Remuneration Tribunal, in its 1986 Review found that despite the call for restraint in Public spending, there was a pressing need to remove the anomaly that existed, and determined that the 11.7 per cent increase be granted to Federal Members. The Federal Government however, has announced that this will be rejected by the Parliament.

This Tribunal again considers, as it has done in every Determination since 1981 that the 90 per cent relativity with a Federal Members basic salary is appropriate. However, the decision of the Federal Government is frustrating to our attempt to restore the relativity.

In keeping with our practice of adhering whenever possible to the Wage Fixation Principles, we now determine that the 2.3 per cent National Wage Case decision of 9 July 1986 shall be granted to Parliamentarians basic salary, with effect from 1 July 1986.

ADDITIONAL SALARIES OF MINISTERS OF THE CROWN, OFFICERS OF PARLIAMENT AND THE PARLIAMENTARY SECRETARY OF THE CABINET

The 2.3 per cent National Wage Case decision will be passed on to the additional salaries of all Ministers and officers contained in Parts II and III of the first schedule, effective from 1 July 1986.

Upon examination, three positions have demonstrated an increase in responsibility to such a degree that warrants an increase in additional salary. These positions are the Leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Council, the Deputy Leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Assembly and the Parliamentary Secretary of Cabinet. Over the years, these positions have received an additional salary of 35 per cent of that given to Ministers. The Tribunal is satisfied that the level of responsibility and work should now be remunerated at 55 per cent of the Ministerial salary. This will align them more closely with their counterparts in the other States and Commonwealth.

LEADER OF THE THIRD PARTY

In the past provision has been made for the payment of an additional salary to a person who not being a Minister of the Crown is the Leader in the Legislative Assembly of a party of at least seven Members in that House other than a party whose leader is the Premier or the Leader or Deputy Leader of the Opposition.

An amendment to the Salaries and Allowances Act has reduced the number of Members required in the Legislative Assembly from seven to five. This Act was proclaimed on 1 August 1986. This places the Leader of the National Party of Australia, Western Australian Division within the Tribunal's jurisdiction.

The Tribunal having assessed the situation, considers that the position equates with the Deputy Leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Assembly and the Leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Council. Accordingly the additional salary for the position has been set at 55 per cent of that paid to a Minister.

ELECTORATE ALLOWANCES

These are to be increased by 2.3 per cent with effect from 1 July 1986.

TRAVELLING ALLOWANCE

The provision of allowances for Members of Parliament who incur expense in securing overnight accommodation has been broadened to differentiate between Capital Cities and other places in Australia.

In keeping with other States, the Commonwealth and normal business practices, the Tribunal has determined that Members shall be entitled to claim reimbursement of their taxi fares necessarily incurred when travelling to and from any airport or helipad in the Metropolitan Area to Parliament House, or to the Members residence in the Metropolitan Area for the purpose of attending a sitting of Parliament, attending Party meetings or meetings of Parliamentary Committees.

TELEPHONE RENTAL AND CALLS

Under previous Determinations, Members of Parliament provided with an electorate office, received by way of an allowance, reimbursement of the full rental and 85 per cent of all charges for calls incurred by the Members at the Electorate Office. Following the Review, and having regard to the practice in other States and the Commonwealth, the Tribunal considers that the full cost of rental and all charges for calls should be met by the Government.

OFFICERS IN THE SPECIAL DIVISION OF THE PUBLIC SERVICE AND PERSONS
HOLDING PRESCRIBED OFFICES

The Tribunal has received a submission prepared by a Consultant comparing the work value and salaries and positions within our jurisdiction and those in the private sector. This matter is undergoing further review and no action is proposed at this time.

The 2.3 per cent increase granted as a result of the recent National Wage Case decision is passed on to Officers in the Special Division of the Public Service and Persons Holding Prescribed Offices, with effect from 11 July 1986.

These groups, in addition to salary, receive expense of office allowances ranging from $825 to $2 200 per annum; hitherto the Taxation Department has accepted the allowance as tax deductible without substantiation. As all expenses of this nature now require substantiation the total amount is expressed as salary.

DETERMINATION

Our attached Determination which is in two schedules is to operate from the dates shown in those Schedules.

Dated at Perth this 12th day of September, 1986.
