Overview

One of the criteria that the Electoral Distribution Commissioners must consider in dividing the State into electoral regions and districts under the Electoral Act 1907 is the existing local government (municipality) boundaries. Indeed, a significant proportion of the electoral boundaries follow closely the boundaries described for the local governments, particularly in the country.

An objective of this division of the State is to simplify the preparation of the technical descriptions that explain the boundaries of the new electoral regions and districts in the Government Gazette. Where possible, a reference to an existing municipality boundary will be used rather than reproducing the detailed technical description for that boundary. This approach allows a significant reduction in the volume of the technical descriptions that would otherwise be required if all relevant local government boundaries were to be described in full.

As this method of description involves reference to source detail held elsewhere, a clear method of location and access to this reference material is required.

The technical descriptions for municipality boundaries are published in the Government Gazette and as such may be considered generally available. However, locating the specific issue and page of the Government Gazette which applies to a specific section or amendment of a municipality boundary is Typically, municipality problematic. boundaries are not redescribed in full in the Government Gazette whenever a change is made, but rather a description of the change is published. To ascertain the full technical description of a municipality may involve referencing a dozen or more issues of the Government Gazette going back more than a hundred years. The Department of Local Government and Regional Development holds a single master register of municipality boundary amendment entries dating back to 1856.

During the 1994 division of the State, the three Electoral Distribution Commissioners decided that the most appropriate approach was to make the records held by the Department of Local Government and Regional Development more readily available as a public resource.

The Municipality Boundary Amendments Register was originally generated from information from combined both Department of Land Administration (now Landgate) and the Department of Local Government and Regional Development and was published in special Government Gazette No. 167 on 28 November 1994 to coincide with the publication of the division of the State in special Government Gazette No. 168. The division of the State publication included an addendum with an abridged index taken from Municipality Boundary Amendments Register to assist in the location of particular references to municipalities.

The Municipality Boundary Amendments Register is maintained and updated by the Department of Local Government and Regional Development.

This third publication of the Municipality Boundary Amendments Register has been timed to coincide with the publication of the division of the State, in special Government Gazette No. 226 on 29 October 2007. It includes details of local government boundary changes up to and including 31 July 2007.

Disclaimer

Whilst the Municipality Boundary Amendments Register is considered to be more accurate and complete than the source materials used, some errors may still exist. If you notice any errors or inconsistencies please notify the Department of Local Government and Regional Development.
