Schedule 1 — Interim Code of Fair Practice for Retirement Villages 2013

[r. 3(1)]

Foreword

An increasing number of retired people are finding the concept of retirement villages attractive. These villages exist in a number of forms with a range of tenures and accommodation types. Different financial arrangements and forms of contract include lease, licence, a right conferred by shares, strata title, or freehold title. Retirement villages also differ widely with regard to the nature of care and other amenities and services that may be available.

The Code, the Retirement Villages Act 1992 and Retirement Villages Regulations 1992 provide a package for the regulation of the retirement village industry that safeguards the rights of both the residents and the owners of retirement villages, and provides clear guidelines for the industry. The Code sets out the practices that apply to the promotion, sale and operation of retirement villages.

This Code has been prescribed as an interim code under the Fair Trading Act 2010 section 44. It is, in substance, the same as the Interim Code of Fair Practice for Retirement Villages 2012, which lapsed on 31 March 2013. This Code will remain in force for 6 months from 1 April 2013, to allow time for consultation and development of a new revised code, in accordance with section 44.

Division 1 of the Code deals with, and provides information on, general matters such as the meaning of terms used in the Code; the application, general principles and objectives of the Code; the basic rights of residents of a retirement village and the Code's relationship to other relevant legislation.

Division 2 sets out the approvals that must be obtained before any sales promotion of a retirement village is undertaken, and specifies the information that must be disclosed in any advertising or promotional material.

Division 3 sets out the information that must be provided to a prospective resident of a retirement village before the person enters into a residence contract or any service contract with the administering body of the village.

Division 4 specifies the information that must be included in the residence contract and any service contract.

Division 5 sets out the rights and obligations of the administering body and residents in relation to the management and operation of a retirement village, including consultation on the village operating budget, the provision of quarterly operating income and expenditure statements, the establishment of a residents' committee and the holding of residents' meetings.

Division 6 recognises that disputes may occur in a retirement village and outlines the processes that may be utilised to resolve them, including mediation.

Division 7 explains the rights and the obligations of the administering body and a resident of a retirement village, in relation to the termination of a residence contract.

Division 8 specifies the method of delivery of any written notice, correspondence or other document that must be given under this Code to a resident or the administering body of a retirement village.

Appendix 1 provides a list of questions that a prospective resident should carefully read and consider before deciding to enter any retirement village.

Compliance with this Code

The Code must be complied with and is enforceable by the Commissioner in the State Administrative Tribunal under the Fair Trading Act 2010.

Where it appears to the Commissioner that an administering body has not complied with the Code, the Commissioner may apply to the State Administrative Tribunal for an order, and the State Administrative Tribunal may make orders including that —

- the administering cease contravening the Code; and/or
- the administering body rectify any consequence of that contravention.

An administering body that fails to comply with an order made by the State Administrative Tribunal commits an offence that is punishable by a fine of up to $50,000.

- (2) This Code does not apply to the administering body or a resident or prospective resident of a retirement village if —
 - (a) the administering body is an approved provider within the meaning of the Aged Care Act 1997 of the Commonwealth (Cwlth) in relation to the residential premises used or intended to be used as a place of residence by the resident or prospective resident; and
 - (b) the administering body provides, or is to provide, the resident or prospective resident with residential care within the meaning of the Aged Care Act 1997 (Cwlth); and

- (3) Except as provided in subclause (4), Division 2 of this Code does not apply to any contract, agreement or arrangement made or entered into prior to the commencement of the Code.
- (4) If a contract, agreement or arrangement made or entered into prior to the commencement of this Code is silent on a matter with which Division 2 of the Code deals, the provisions of Division 2 will apply to such matter.

This Code and the Retirement Villages Act 1992 do not apply to residential care services provided by an administering body under the Aged Care Act 1997 (Cwlth).

Note that under the Fair Trading Act 2010 section 10 this Code binds the Crown.

1.3 General principles

The general principles guiding all those involved in the provision of retirement villages and related services are that —

- (a) the well-being and interests of residents, together with the rights of administering bodies, must be given due consideration; and
- (b) the freedom of decision and action of each resident must be restricted as little as possible and must be recognised in the relationship between a resident and the administering body of a retirement village; and
- (c) the relationship of residents with their family and past and present communities is important and must be recognised, taking into account the cultural, religious and linguistic background of each resident; and
- (d) residents must be treated fairly and not subject to abuse or exploitation.

1.4 Objectives of the Code

The objectives of the Code are to —

- (a) promote fair trading practices in the provision of retirement villages and related services by setting out the rights and obligations of residents and administering bodies in retirement villages; and
- (b) encourage fairness in the promotion, sale or grant of rights in, and operation of, retirement villages; and
- (c) require the disclosure of all relevant information to a person who is considering entering a particular retirement village; and
- (d) require contracts for the occupation of residential premises and for the provision of amenities and services in a retirement village to contain full details of the obligations and entitlements of the resident and the administering body; and

- (e) facilitate consultation between the administering body and the residents on the management of a retirement village; and
- (f) establish appropriate mechanisms for the resolution of any dispute in a retirement village between the residents and the administering body or between residents.

1.5 Resident's basic rights

- (1) The administering body of a retirement village must respect a resident's basic right to privacy in his or her residential premises, subject to the right of the administering body to inspect the premises as set out in the residence rules and the residence contract.
- (2) The administering body must respect a resident's basic right to quiet enjoyment of his or her residential premises and any communal amenities.
- (3) The administering body must respect a resident's basic right to complete autonomy over his or her property and personal and financial affairs, subject to any statutory restriction or any other restriction provided for in the residence contract.

Other relevant legislation

The provisions of this Code should be read in conjunction with other relevant legislation. The Retirement Villages Act 1992 and the Retirement Villages Regulations 1992 set out rights and obligations relating to retirement villages. The Fair Trading Act 2010 is applicable to residence contracts and other contracts concerning retirement villages. Where residential premises in a retirement village are strata titled, the provisions of the Strata Titles Act 1985 and any applicable by-laws also apply.

The Aged Care Act 1997 (Cwlth) has application to residential care services provided under that Act by the administering body of a retirement village.

Division 2 — Advertising and promotion of retirement villages

2.1 General

All promotional or sales material provided by, or on behalf of, the administering body of a retirement village about that village, whether in written or oral form, must be —

- (a) truthful, accurate and unambiguous; and
- (b) entirely consistent with the provisions of this Code, the Retirement Villages Act 1992 and the Fair Trading Act 2010.

2.2 Retirement village developments

- (1) The owner of land upon which a retirement village is to be developed, must obtain all necessary consents to develop the retirement village from the relevant authorities before any sales promotion of the village is undertaken.
- (2) Subclause (1) does not preclude the owner from carrying out a market survey or inviting expressions of interest in the proposed retirement village prior to any sales promotion.
- (3) Where the consent to develop a retirement village includes a requirement for certain amenities or services to be provided for the life of the village, that requirement must be included in any promotional or sales material provided to a prospective resident.

2.3 Proposed amenities and services

Where the promotional or sales material provided by, or on behalf of, the administering body of a retirement village makes reference to proposed amenities and services in the village, the promotional or sales material must —

- (a) state —
 - (i) the latest date by which those amenities and services will be provided or made available to the residents of the village; or

(ii) the happening of an event upon which the provision or availability of those amenities and services depends;

and

(b) state any conditions upon which the provision or availability of those amenities and services to the residents depend.

2.4 Approvals for facilities that provide residential aged care services

The administering body must obtain all necessary consents from the relevant authorities to operate facilities that provide residential care services under the Aged Care Act 1997 (Cwlth), before such facilities are promoted as being available to, or associated with, a retirement village.

2.5 Access to residential aged care services

Where the promotional or sales material provided by, or on behalf of, the administering body of a retirement village makes reference to the availability of residential care services under the Aged Care Act 1997 (Cwlth), the following statement on the terms of access to such services printed in 16 point type and boxed must be included in the promotional or sales material —

You should be aware that current Commonwealth policy guidelines on admission to Commonwealth funded residential aged care facilities require places to be allocated on a “needs” basis. It is not possible for an organisation providing services for older people to guarantee admission to Commonwealth funded residential aged care facilities.

Division 3 — Prospective resident’s right to information before entering into a residence contract or service contract

3.1 Before entering into a residence contract

The owner of a retirement village must make the following information available, in writing, to a prospective resident of the retirement village at least 5 working days before the prospective resident enters into a residence contract for occupation of residential premises in the village —

- (a) a copy of —
 - (i) if the retirement village is already operating, the audited or actual accounts of income and expenditure for the previous financial year of the village and the operating budget for the current financial year; or
 - (ii) in any other case, the proposed operating budget for the first year of operation;
- (b) a copy of every contract required to be entered into in order to reside in the retirement village and details of any costs associated with entering into every such contract;
- (c) if the residential premises are comprised in a strata plan or a survey-strata plan registered under the Strata Titles Act 1985 —
 - (i) a copy of the by-laws of the relevant strata company; and
 - (ii) an authority to obtain information pursuant to the Strata Titles Act 1985 section 43.

Note that under the Retirement Villages Act 1992 section 13(2)(c) the owner of a retirement village is obliged to provide a prospective resident with a copy of the residence rules of that village. A full statement of the rights conferred under sections 13 and 14 of that Act is set out in the Retirement Villages Regulations 1992 Schedule 1 Form 2.

Information statement by owner

Note that under the Retirement Villages Act 1992 section 13(2)(a), an owner is required to provide a prospective resident with written answers to the questions set out in the Retirement Villages Regulations 1992 Schedule 1 Form 1. The questions require the owner to disclose such things as —

- the premium (i.e. the ingoing contribution) and other costs payable by the resident to enter the retirement village;
- the village operating costs payable by the resident and the method or calculation used to determine and vary those costs;
- the amenities and services that are provided or made available to the resident and the charges or fees payable by the resident to access or use those amenities and services;

A prospective resident should carefully read and consider the list of questions provided in Appendix 1 to this Code before deciding to enter any retirement village.

3.2 Before entering into a service contract

The administering body of a retirement village must give the following information in writing to a prospective resident, or a resident, at least 5 working days before that person enters into a service contract with the administering body —

- (2) The following statement must appear in 16 point type and be included in the residence contract and any service contract —

I acknowledge that I have been given a copy of, and have had the opportunity to take independent advice on, this contract.

Residence contract cooling off period

Under the Retirement Villages Act 1992 section 14, a residence contract entered into after the commencement of the Act must provide for a cooling-off period of not less than 5 working days after the date of the contract (i.e. the day on which the contract was signed by the last party to sign it).

If the information referred to in section 13(2) of that Act is not provided at least 5 days before a residence contract is entered into, the cooling-off period for that contract is 10 days after the day on which the information is provided.

During the cooling-off period, a person may withdraw from a residence contract by giving notice in writing to all other parties to the contract (unless the person has entered into residence in the retirement village during the cooling-off period).

On withdrawing from a residence contract a person is entitled, subject to the provisions of the Retirement Villages Act 1992 sections 14(2) and 75, to the full repayment of all moneys paid.

Where a facility provides a residential care service to a person under the Aged Care Act 1997 (Cwlth), Subdivision 57-G of that Act will apply to the refund of any entry payment made by the person for the provision of the service.

4.2 Title and tenure

The residence contract must fully disclose —

- (b) the type of occupancy (e.g. self-care or serviced unit); and
- (c) the length of time the resident is entitled to reside in the retirement village in return for payment under the residence contract.

4.3 Residential premises

- (1) The residence contract for residential premises in a retirement village that is proposed or under construction must include —

- (2) The residence contract for residential premises in an existing retirement village must —
 - (a) identify the specific address of the residential premises; and

 - (c) the basis for the future determination of the costs of providing or making those services available.
- (2) A resident shall not be liable to pay for personal services that the resident does not receive, other than the reasonable costs incurred in making any service available, where —
 - (a) the residence contract has been terminated; or
 - (b) the resident has permanently vacated the residential premises; or
 - (c) the resident has temporarily ceased to reside in the residential premises.
- (3) For the purposes of subclause (2), personal services means any amenity or service provided to a resident by the administering body, other than the provision of —
 - (a) residential accommodation; and
 - (b) communal amenities in the retirement village; and
 - (c) village management services.

Examples of personal services are the provision of meals, laundry services and the cleaning of the resident's residential premises.

4.6 Payment of premium and refund entitlement

The residence contract must state —

- (a) any premium or rent payable by the resident to secure residential premises in the retirement village; and

- (b) the right of the resident to a refund of the whole or a part of the premium on the termination of the residence contract, including —
 - (i) the method or calculation used to determine the refund and when it is to be paid; and
 - (ii) any fees or commissions charged by the administering body and the method or calculation used to determine those fees or commissions; and
 - (iii) any other costs or charges that may be deducted from the refund entitlement of the resident.

An example of a cost referred to in paragraph (b)(iii) above is the cost of any repair or refurbishment of the residential premises.

4.7 Charges for village operating costs

The residence contract must state —

- (a) the items of the village operating costs to which the resident must contribute; and
 - (b) the actual or estimated operating costs for the current financial year of the retirement village and the basis for the future determination of those costs; and
 - (c) any ongoing village operating costs or charges that the resident will be liable for if —

- (2) If the retirement village is comprised in a strata plan or a survey-strata plan registered under the Strata Titles Act 1985, this clause applies to any reserve fund established by the relevant strata company under that Act.

4.9 Relocation

The residence contract must include the following information regarding the transfer or relocation of the resident to other residential premises within the retirement village —

- (a) the circumstances under which the resident can transfer or be relocated;
- (b) the financial arrangements which would apply on such a transfer or relocation;
- (c) who is responsible for any ongoing village operating costs or charges levied against the residential premises from which the resident will have moved;
- (d) the period for which the responsibility under paragraph (c) will continue.

4.10 Termination of residence contract and fees payable on termination

- (1) The residence contract must set out —

period, including who is to be responsible for ongoing village operating costs or charges during a period of vacancy of the residential premises; and

The conditions under which a residence contract can be terminated, and the cost of the termination, must also be specified in the answers to the questions set out in the Retirement Villages Regulations 1992 Schedule 1 Form 1 that must be given to a prospective resident.

- (2) The residence contract must include —
 - (a) a statement that the administering body cannot terminate the contract without the agreement of the resident or an order of the State Administrative Tribunal; and
 - (b) a summary of the powers of the State Administrative Tribunal to terminate a residence contract.

The legal rights and responsibilities of the administering body and the resident in relation to the termination of a residence contract are set out in the Retirement Villages Act 1992 Part 4 Division 5 and clause 7.1 of this Code.

A summary of these rights and responsibilities and the powers of the State Administrative Tribunal to terminate a residence contract, is set out in the boxed and shaded information in Division 7 of this Code.

Division 6 — Dispute resolution

6.1 Interpretation

special resolution has the same meaning as it has in Division 5 of this Code.

- (1) Where a dispute occurs in a retirement village —
 - (a) the administering body must nominate a suitable person or body to deal with the dispute; and
 - (b) a resident who is a party to the dispute may be supported by another person at any stage in the dispute process, provided the other party is given prior notice of the name of that person; and

 - (c) are before, or have been decided by, a court or the State Administrative Tribunal or other tribunal of competent jurisdiction.
- (2) The Commissioner may decline to accept the application if —
 - (a) no attempt has been made to resolve the dispute using the village dispute process established under clause 6.2; or
 - (b) the Commissioner considers that the matters in dispute could be adequately dealt with in some other way, including by negotiation by the Commissioner under the Retirement Villages Act 1992 section 8(1)(d); or

- (c) any party has not agreed to have the dispute dealt with by mediation under this clause; or
 - (d) the Commissioner considers that the application should not be accepted for another reason.
- (3) Within 10 working days after receiving the application, the Commissioner must —
 - (a) give written reasons for any decision made to refuse to accept the application; or
 - (b) appoint a mediator to mediate the dispute and give written notice to the parties to the dispute of —
 - (i) the appointed mediator; and
 - (ii) the time, date and place for the holding of the mediation.
- (4) The notice under subclause (3)(b) must —
 - (a) be given at least 5 working days before the mediation is to take place; and
 - (b) where given to a party against whom the complaint has been made, include a copy of the application.
- (5) A party to a dispute cannot be compelled to attend mediation.
- (6) If a person who is given a notice under subclause (3)(b) notifies the Commissioner that the person does not wish to attend the mediation, the Commissioner must advise the appointed mediator and the other parties to the dispute of this fact.
- (7) If the Commissioner is notified by any party that the mediator appointed under subclause (3)(b) is not the preferred mediator, the Commissioner may —
 - (a) appoint another mediator who is acceptable to all the parties; and
 - (b) issue an amended notice under subclause (3)(b).

- (8) The mediator may permit a party to be represented or assisted in the presentation of the case by an agent, other than a person engaged as a legal representative, if the mediator is satisfied that —
- (a) the party is unable to appear personally or conduct the proceedings properly himself or herself; and
 - (b) the agent has sufficient knowledge of the matters in dispute to represent the party effectively; and
 - (c) no other party will be unfairly disadvantaged by the fact that the agent is allowed to so act.
- (9) If the parties reach a mediated agreement on the dispute, the mediator is to —

- (14) Any party may, by written notice (the withdrawal notice) given to the Commissioner, withdraw from the mediation before or after the mediation has commenced.
- (15) The Commissioner must advise the appointed mediator and the other parties to the dispute of the withdrawal as soon as practicable after receipt of the withdrawal notice.

It is recognised that in any communal living situation, such as a retirement village where amenities are shared, disputes between residents and the administering body, or between residents, may occur from time to time. This Code places particular emphasis on providing easy access to an informal and inexpensive process to resolve disputes. The prevention of disputes through open communication and the provision of information, and democratic decision-making, is always preferable.

Many disputes are due to simple misunderstandings or lack of suitable information. Every attempt should be made by those involved in a dispute to resolve it between themselves. It may be useful to discuss the problem with a friend or advocate (for example, a member of the residents' committee) before using the dispute processes available under this Code.

If the dispute cannot be resolved within the retirement village, either party can seek the assistance of the Commissioner. The Commissioner can provide information and conciliation services to either party to assist in the resolution of the dispute or refer the matter to an independent external mediator.

If the dispute remains unresolved, either party may apply to the State Administrative Tribunal for a hearing if the dispute is one in which the State Administrative Tribunal has jurisdiction.

The details of the State Administrative Tribunal's powers can be found in the Retirement Villages Act 1992, and any associated Act referred to in that Act.

Division 7 — Termination of residence contracts

7.1 Notice of intention to terminate

- (1) Unless otherwise provided in the residence contract, the administering body of a retirement village must give a resident at least 10 working days written notice of its intention to apply to the State Administrative Tribunal for an order to terminate a residence contract under the Retirement Villages Act 1992 section 58 or 59.
- (2) The notice given under subclause (1) must —
 - (a) if the application is sought under section 58 of the Act, specify the reasons why the residential premises occupied by the resident are unsuitable for occupation by the resident; and
 - (b) if the application is sought under section 59 of the Act —
 - (i) specify the breach of the residence contract or residence rules, as the case may be; and
 - (ii) give the resident a reasonable and specified time to rectify a breach that may be rectified;and
 - (c) clearly state that the residence contract cannot be terminated without an order by the State Administrative Tribunal; and

- (d) advise the resident of his or her right to occupy the residential premises until the State Administrative Tribunal fixes a termination date.

Retirement villages are clearly marketed by the industry as permanent accommodation for residents of such villages. Accordingly, a residence contract may be terminated only in a limited number of circumstances, as set out in the residence contract or the Retirement Villages Act 1992.

The administering body of a retirement village cannot terminate a residence contract on its own; that is, without the agreement of the resident. However, a resident or the administering body may apply to the State Administrative Tribunal to terminate a residence contract under circumstances as specified in the Retirement Villages Act 1992.

Termination by a resident

The manner in which a resident may terminate a residence contract after the expiration of the cooling-off period is as set out in the contract or the Retirement Villages Act 1992.

Termination by the State Administrative Tribunal

As set out in the Retirement Villages Act 1992 Part 4 Division 5, an administering body may apply to the State Administrative Tribunal to terminate a residence contract on the grounds that —

- the resident's physical or mental health is such as to make the residential premises unsuitable for occupation by the resident (section 58 of the Act);
- the resident has breached the residence contract or the residence rules and has failed to rectify that breach (section 59 of the Act);
- the resident has intentionally or recklessly caused or permitted, or is likely intentionally or recklessly to cause or permit, serious damage to the residential premises or injury to the administering body, an employee of the administering body or another resident (section 62 of the Act); or

- the administering body would, in the special circumstances of the case, suffer undue hardship if the residence contract were not terminated (section 63 of the Act).

Under section 57 of the Act, a resident may apply to the State Administrative Tribunal for an order in respect of a dispute with the administering body as to whether the resident should be transferred to another kind of accommodation in the village. The State Administrative Tribunal may make an order that —

- restrains the administering body from transferring the resident to another kind of accommodation in the village;
- requires the resident to transfer, or the administering body to transfer the resident, to another kind of accommodation in the village; or
- terminates the residence contract of the resident.

Notice of termination

As required under the Retirement Villages Act 1992 sections 58 and 59, the State Administrative Tribunal must not make an order terminating a residence contract on medical grounds or for a breach of the contract or residence rules, unless satisfied that the administering body has complied with the procedures in clause 7.1 of this Code or the contract for giving notice of the intention to terminate the contract.

Section 61 of the Act gives the State Administrative Tribunal the power to waive the requirement to give this notice if considered appropriate to do so having regard to any special circumstances of a particular case.

Payments on termination

Where a residence contract has been terminated under the residence contract or the Retirement Villages Act 1992 on the happening of an event or circumstance which requires the repayment of the whole or a part of the premium paid by the resident to enter the village, the administering body must pay the resident any money due under the contract —

- within 7 days of the succeeding resident taking occupation of the residential premises; or
- in any other case within 45 days of the day on which the resident ceases occupation of the residential premises.

Where the State Administrative Tribunal has terminated a residence contract, the State Administrative Tribunal is to fix a date by which the resident must vacate the residential premises.

This in no way affects the rights of the administering body to set terms and conditions on the disposal of the resident's interest in the residential premises pursuant to the residence contract where the resident has the right to appoint his or her own agent.

When ordering the termination of a residence contract, the State Administrative Tribunal may make any order for the payment or refund of money by the administering body to the resident or by the resident to the administering body.

Where a facility provides a residential care service to a person under the Aged Care Act 1997 (Cwlth), Subdivision 57-G of that Act will determine the period within which the refund of any entry payment made by the person for the provision of the service is to be paid.

Division 8 — Miscellaneous

8.1 Service of documents

- (1) Any written notice, correspondence or other document that must be given under this Code to a resident of a retirement village shall be —

Appendix 1 — Checklist for prospective resident

It is important for you to carefully read and consider the following questions before deciding to enter any retirement village. If, after reading through the list, you are uncertain as to any aspects of the village, or its suitability for you, seek further advice.

1. Have I fully discussed my decision to enter a retirement village with my family, friends or adviser?
2. Can I afford to move into the village I have chosen and meet the current and future ongoing costs of living in this village? What are the financial consequences for me if I wish to move out of the village? Have I sought independent advice from a licensed financial adviser on these matters?
3. If I am considering moving to a retirement village because the housework, gardening and general maintenance has become too much, have I fully considered other options? For example, obtaining home help or handyperson help, or moving to a smaller unit in the same neighbourhood.
4. If I am considering moving to a retirement village because I have recently lost my partner, have I given myself enough time to grieve before I make a major lifestyle change?
5. Have I received adequate information about the retirement village I have chosen? Have I shown the documents to a solicitor? Am I satisfied that I fully understand the contract that I am signing?
6. Am I comfortable that the lifestyle of the village (including social activities and religion) will suit me? Have I spoken to any residents of the village?

7. Will the village and my unit be readily accessible if I become disabled and need a wheelchair or walking aid? What alternatives do I have if I am no longer able to live alone?
8. Does the village provide personal care or nursing care, an emergency call system and other amenities that are likely to meet my present or future needs?
9. Have I looked at a number of villages to compare the amenities (e.g. recreational, transport, gardens etc.) and financial arrangements?
10. Is the village I have chosen accessible to my friends and family?
11. Can I take my own furniture to the village and, if so, will it be suitable?
12. Before I sign the contract, have I received and considered all the information required to be given to me under the Interim Code of Fair Practice for Retirement Villages 2013 and the Retirement Villages Act 1992?
