INFORMATION ABOUT COMPULSORY VOTING(Electoral Act 1907 — Section 156)

It is compulsory in Western Australia for all electors to record their vote at any State election or referendum. Electors however, may be excused from voting if they have a “valid and sufficient reason” for not doing so. For example, an elector may have been absent from the State at the time; or may have been seriously ill or infirm, or incapacitated and was so prevented from attending a polling place.

If you did vote at the recent election, then please write your name and address, together with the details of the time and place of voting at (A) on the reverse, sign the form and return it to the Electoral Commission.

If you did not vote, please write your name and address together with the full details of your reason at (B) on the reverse, sign it and return it to the Electoral Commission. This information will be assessed and if the reason is accepted, then the matter will be considered to be finalised. If the reason is not accepted, you will be advised of the penalty to be imposed. The penalty could be up to $20, or $50 if you have failed to vote previously or the matter is dealt with by a court.

This matter cannot be settled by telephone — if you have any information to provide, you must write this on the form and send it to the Electoral Commission.

If you do not reply, a penalty can also be imposed. Again this will be up to $20 or $50 for a subsequent offence or if the matter is dealt with by a court.

It is important to fully detail any reasons that you provide e.g. provide details of dates and locations if you were absent from the State on election day. If you need more space to detail your reasons, use another piece of paper and attach it to the form.

If you provide a false reason on the form, a penalty of up to $50 can also be imposed.

Do not send any payments at this stage. If a penalty is to be imposed, you will be sent a notice at a later state requiring payment.

Another person can fill in the form on behalf of an elector, if that elector is absent or incapacitated, provided the person filling in the form has personal knowledge of the facts concerned.
